English Seminary

30—SUBERCACHE—30. The principal of the establishment continues to promote his system of Instruction, under the most favorable auspices. His practical acquaintance with the most popular systems of education in England and the United States has enabled him to introduce branches and improvements, which render his Institution the most efficient hitherto known in these countries.

Thoroughly qualified English teachers have charge of the pupils, and the highest branches are taught by competent professors. The greatest attention is given to the moral and physical culture of the boarding pupils, who are under the constant supervision of Mr. Nicholson.

To parents in the country or provinces who wish a home for their children, this Institution offers every advantage, and superior to the painful necessity hitherto felt; that in order to secure a first rate moral education, children must be sent to England or the United States.

References given to the British mercantile community, to whom this establishment is favorably known, as members of its former pupils occupy prominent positions in the first mercantile houses of the city.

Dates from South America.
The distinguished statesman in the 71st year of his age. The Prince of Wales was fulfilling the growing cares of a royal dukedom by opening a library in the Temple, and paying a visit to the Duke of Newcastle, his late Mentor in Canada. A terrible pest visited the north-east coast, causing much loss of life. Her Majesty returned to Windsor, on the approach of winter, and Prince Alfred by last accounts was drinking champagne with Lord Mulgrave in the blue-room capital. There is little of import from India, except that the Hindostani nabobs have an objection to the Victoria decoration, the wearing of stars being deemed a profanation.

Stop Press.
The Doloretits brings details from Rosario of much weight. Corrientes surrendered to the rebels and F. Rolon gave place to a man-of-war Dr. Philip Rolon, in the circle chair. In Santa Fe, Flores had quartered the Italian Legion in town, and encamped his army about 3 leagues distant, guaranteeing the inhabitants' perfect security. The hostile squadron ascended the Paraná, our ships following in its wake. Dispatches from Puanero relate that Saa had still some 70 dragoons, and Cordoba's, with whom he purposed making for Mendoza. Baigorren was en route for San Luis to support Ordóñez. Cordoba was tranquil, Puanero's head quarters being at Villa Nueva for strategic purposes.

Charitable Donation.
It is with sincere pleasure we observe the generosity of several Irish farmers who, having disposed of their wool, bestow on our city some of the surplus value. No doubt their earnings are fairly gained, but charity leaves an impost more agreeable than the Contribution, and it is a rare merit who refuses a moiety to objects of public or national interest.

United States.
The Federals have again sustained a reverse, having lost 600 men and Gen. Baker. The latter was the first Englishman who ever attained the rank of Senator. The Confederates have seized the banks of the Potomac and still menace Washington. In this city forgo was so scarce that it was found the cavalry would soon find themselves in their horse. Some speculative Yankee proposed, it is said, the Frenchman's treatment of his quadruped, but without success. Much more happy has been the reception of the Pacific Telegraph, by which messages can now be sent from San Francisco to New Zealand a stretch of 9,000 miles. A great expedition comprising several vessels and some 50,000 men was fitting out for New Orleans, but the case was doubtful. Meantime Gen. McClellan instituted severe discipline and calculated by an improved method to be able at once to face the enemy. Fremont had twice been defeated by other, and nothing, awakened the flagging interest but an occasional Editor who was tarred and feathered for amusement.

The revolt in Entre-Rios & Corrientes.
Urquiza seems to have made himself a host of enemies by the recent reconciliation towards Buenos Ayres. Not only Lopez Jordán but even his own son is reported to have condemned his conduct, and lastly we hear that Victoria and two Aides-de-camp expressed themselves so clearly that the former had no judicio de common sense, that we have taken so many liberties with our language as to make it subservient to a Mosiac transformation: that we have voted accentuation a bore; that we break off in the middle of a sentence; that we give play to our readers' imagination; that we translate official documents in their true spirit, so that the vulgar can make neither head nor tail of them; that we enrich our diction, with grotesque figures of speech, which Blair might study in vain, or Mexofanti bother himself to discover their paternity. In fine our paper breathes such freedom of thought, expression and purpose, that all who read it will find unusual amusement in following us to conclusion, or calculating the immense fund of imagination required for so heterogeneous, original, pig-bald, and ridiculous, a surfeit of general absurdities.

News from the camp.
The latest dispatches announce Mitre's arrival at head-quarters, but we are not to suppose that this indicates fresh warlike movements. While the two expeditionary columns are doing their work, our commander's attention will probably turn on the new pacification, arranging details with Urquiza, whose flight is merely imaginary. We have no fears of a misunderstanding between the rival Generals, since mutual amity is the interest not only of themselves but of the nation; there are however some points as yet undefined, and these can best be determined on the spot.

Further European News.
In our summary of Sunday, we omitted the death of the King of Portugal; the report of a famine in the West of Ireland & the treaty between England, France & Spain to humble Mexico, whereby French occupation is limited to 3,000 troops, and projects of annexation discontinued. It is also true that Queen Isabella has resolved to support the Pope's throne, and a coalition is forming against O'Donnell.

Correspondence.
Moreno 8th Dec. 1861.
Mr. Editor,
Sir,
Nothing could be more amusing than a birds-eye view of this patriotic and generalizing town last evening.

Shipping List.
In to-morrow's paper we will give the Shipping List which we have discarded from our weekly edition as having no interest for any subscribers.

General Mitre, in Europe.
Although our affairs generally excite less interest in the old world than here, we perceive that the "Monitor" and "London News" make favorable mention of the battle of Pavon. Gen. Mitre has perhaps acquired in one day more, reputation in Europe than a life-long devotion to his principles, and the successful cultivation of literary efforts have ever procured him. We prefer vastly the historian P. Belgrano to the victor of Pavon, but can not wonder that the world bestows more praise on the daring soldier than on the instructive writer.

Local Events.
GERMAN DROWNED.—At half-past one on Sunday a youth of Valentin met with an untimely death, while bathing off the mole. This is a second time that we are obliged to call loudly for a bathing establishment seeing the cost of such an institute would be little compared with the value of human life.

General items.
Our readers will be glad to learn that the San Fernando line is likely to recommence constructive operations at once, and we are assured that the 9th July will see it in motion. Mr. Crosby, one of the Directors, and Messrs. King & Murray, engineer & contractor, have arrived in the "Mersey" so that the project is now tangible. It were desirable that the Chascomus line should have a start at the same time, and in a few months we might take the rail to Belgrano or the Lomas de Zamora; the former being our prettier outlet, and the latter picturesque village at present inaccessible, from bad roads.

Immigrants.
Under this heading may be classed 91 male and 331 female passengers of the Negrete, who arrived on Sunday last from Hamburg for Mr. Passanen.

GERMAN DROWNED.—At half-past one on Sunday a youth of Valentin met with an untimely death, while bathing off the mole. This is a second time that we are obliged to call loudly for a bathing establishment seeing the cost of such an institute would be little compared with the value of human life.

General items.
Our readers will be glad to learn that the San Fernando line is likely to recommence constructive operations at once, and we are assured that the 9th July will see it in motion. Mr. Crosby, one of the Directors, and Messrs. King & Murray, engineer & contractor, have arrived in the "Mersey" so that the project is now tangible. It were desirable that the Chascomus line should have a start at the same time, and in a few months we might take the rail to Belgrano or the Lomas de Zamora; the former being our prettier outlet, and the latter picturesque village at present inaccessible, from bad roads.
