THE RIVERS.

There is much talk at present respecting the stopping of the Oriental was steamer 33, if she attempts to pass Martin Garcia.

There is a sort of pressure brought to bear on President Mitre to induce him to give such orders. There is a wilful blindness as to the ultimate consequences of such an act.

The island of Martin Garcia, belonging to the Argentine Government, is theirs, to do what they like with, and the National Government has as good a right to arm, fortify and defend that island as England had to do with Malta and Gibraltar.

If the rivers Parana and Uruguay were like the Sanbarombon or Salado, flowing solely through Argentine territory, there might be some pretext for detaining vessels belonging to a nation with which we have ceased to continue on friendly terms.

One of the most amusing sights about town is the new Argentine watering cart, which proceeds up and down Calle Rivadavia. The pipe for holding the water is the same as is usually seen in the streets, but the watering machine is composed of a piece of zinc, which hangs down under the cock; the zinc dish being perforated, the water drops down in the most slovenly manner.

The subscribers to the 'Brazil and River Plate Mail' are increasing. Parties wishing to see the second number, will please call at our office.

When we will not now question the right or title of Argentines to Martin Garcia. We find them in possession, and respect their tenure, but if President Mitre supposes that with his 82 cannons and 850 men he is going to shut the rivers against all the nations on the face of the globe, he will only detect his error when his guns are spiked and fortifications leveled.

To justify the stoppage of the steamer '33,' President Mitre must first declare war against the Government to which she belongs. If this formality is not observed, previous to the confiscation of the steamer, Murature will, according to all international and maritime law, be a pirate, and as such, liable to be hanged at the yard-arm, by the first man-of-war which catches him.

The arming of Martin Garcia has caused a deal of jealousy. It behoves President Mitre, therefore, to be singularly circumspect in his conduct. He is wonderfully mistaken, if he supposes that it is only President Berro's Government which looks with distrust on the guns of Martin Garcia.

If President Mitre is content to hold Martin Garcia as a means of protection and defence, there are none who will dispute his title or question his right. But if Martin Garcia is to be converted into an Argentine guard-post, or dock house; if a neighbouring Republic is to be harassed and annoyed, and deprived of the means of sending her vessels along her own coast; if the River Uruguay is to be converted into an Argentine lagoon, then indeed we say the sooner the treaties are re-perused the better.

EDITOR'S TABLE. The Paven arrived yesterday morning bringing the 'Standard abroad' (M. G. Mullhall) and Minister Costa back from their travels. Thanks to the exertions of our brother we have succeeded in making the Standard office more like an Indian wigwam than an editor's sanctum—the bows and arrow of a Gran Chaco cacique hang over our ink bottles, and a splendid specimen of 'wild cotton' manufactured at Corrientes: the latter is a counterpane, apparently silk and wool mixed, presented to us by Governor Lagragna.

We perceive that one of our colleagues calls the attention of the Chief of Police to the danger of having the doors of the Colon Theatre closed during his performances. We think it desirable that the press in this city should keep its lips worship until proper measures are taken for the security of life. The Colon is capable of containing in the theatre above some two thousand people. If any accident happened there, during a performance, it is more than probable that several lives would be lost. The proposition to have all the doors kept open by means of padlocks is deserving of attention.

Young Flores is still in a rather critical position, owing to the ball being still in his throat—his mother is exceedingly anxious about him, but he takes the matter with the coolness of a Skimpole—and states that he hopes to be able to join the army in a few days.

Samples of wild cotton growing most abundantly in Corrientes and Misiones were yesterday given to two English gentlemen who came out in the packet, who promise to forward it to some cotton merchants in Liverpool. Cotton is at last going ahead in the River-Plate. Paraguay will export this year alone 250,000 bales.

The 'Pueblo' has at last made its appearance. It is very well got up, well edited, and we wish it every success. We understand that it has at present over seven hundred subscribers.

To-night Madame Briol appears in 'Lucia,' at the Colon. We understand that she is the best 'Lucia' ever heard in Buenos Ayres; the orchestra and chorus are greatly improved. We hope she will have a full house.

The subscribers to the 'Brazil and River Plate Mail' are increasing. Parties wishing to see the second number, will please call at our office.

PAYSANDU NEWS.

The news from this heroic little town is of the most conflicting character. Some say that at five minutes past 12 o'clock on the 13th, the time specified in Flores's ultimatum, this celebrated fellow attacked the town and was gloriously beaten, whilst others say that he has determined not to assault the place, but means to starve the garrison out. If he resorts to the latter mode, he will be probably for the next five years before the town, as it is rumored that there are contestibles in the town for at least five or six years.

The 'Tribuna' and other papers here make a great rout about the attack on the Villa del Salto, and the important victory gained over the 'blancos,' but if our information is correct this great feat with all his men was unable to capture even a disabled steamer. To speak an estimate are these lies circulated regarding the prowess of Flores, that we can believe nothing. Flores must be very weak indeed if even the places he takes he cannot hold. Whilst he was attacking Paysandu, a handful of blancos entered Fray Bentos and turned every 'colorado' out of it. This shows pretty clearly the extent of Flores's power. The luckiest hit made this long time was the capture of Don Francisco Duran, who in company with Lamela's son and another man were passing down in a goleta or schooner. Duran had 1700 bolivianos and half a dozen of clean shirts, which we understand the Oriental liberator regarded with peculiar pleasure.

Flores is in such a good humor at this that he gave a sort of 'tertulia de confianza' that evening in a neighbouring cabbage garden, and sent an old woman into Paysandu to get some cigars and cana. Quiza has declared Paysandu under martial law, and Flores sent his ultimatum to the foreign consul, and the commander of her Britannic Majesty's gunboat Spider.

When Lengua tried to land his men at Paysandu, Flores lined the beach with 300 men, one thousand of whom he made dismount. We hear that he had five small cannons, and kept up a steady fire on the steamer all the time; the men could not disembark, some half dozen were killed on either side, and the Villa del Salto betook to an island.

Flores has hurried back to retake Fray Bentos, having heard that the blancos had returned. Servando Gomez is marching up to give Flores battle.

LATEST FROM ROSARIO.

The arrival of the 1st Battalion from Cordoba, caused some alarm, owing to a rumour that it was infected with fever. The 'Ferro-Carril' states the alarm was unfounded, but complains of the large number of women brought with the troops, which considerably impeded their march, and reflected disadvantageously on the morality of the corps. Dr. Olguin certifies that there are only 28 sick among the soldiers, and bad cases.

The news from Salta is satisfactory: the 8th Battalion is to be sent to guard the frontier, especially adjacent to the Rivadavia colony. Sr. Lavarello is expected shortly to descend the Vermejo.

In Tucuman there was excessive heat, the thermometer reaching 108 in the shade, followed by abundant rain. Mr. Rans has solicited from Government a return of the annual exports of the province, in order to calculate the number of steamers requisite for the freight down the Salado.

PROCLAMATION OF FLORES.

Soldiers!—We are in front of Paysandu, one of the most important points of the littoral, and in the very heart of the Blanco faction, to the north of Rio Negro.

The people of Paysandu are left to their fate: the resources on which they counted have failed them—the Villa del Salta has gone to the bottom with 300 infantry, which were coming to their assistance. The struggle will not be bloody, and with little bloodshed, we shall plant the standard of liberty upon the walls which were of no avail against your bayonet charge of 1846.

I impress upon you the necessity of discipline and morality—be consistent with the motto on your banners, 'Liberty and order.'

Respect the peaceful inhabitants—above all, respect property—and thus you will fulfil the calamities of your enemies, and gain the respect of strangers, who sympathize with you in your hardships, and rejoice in your triumphs.

Do not doubt it! The reward of virtue will be the more secure, as is certain the punishment which follows the want of order and morality, so necessary to conquer.

Inhabitants of Paysandu! In accordance with my past humane antecedents, I shall look upon as enemies only such as are found armed, fighting against your interests.

VENANCIO FLORES. JOSÉ C. URBANIZADO, Sec. In front of Paysandu, Jan. 7, 1864.

The above bombastic address was showered into the town by means of alcoholic balloons. Flores, however, found to his cost that the Paysanduan were not to be bamboozled by his blarney.

We forgot to mention the other day in our account of the attack on Paysandu, that the heroic 22 men of Longars were led on to the charge by an intrepid washerwoman.

Buenos Ayres Circumlocution Office.

To whom the honor of introducing the system is due, we know not; but whoever it may be deserves great credit for the admirable way in which the theory of 'how best not to do a thing' is carried out in the Custom-house. We happened to witness the process, sparring no trouble, puts as many obstacles in the way of merchants as it possibly can.

Some of the rules which most attracted our attention are as follows:—Should a merchant, with malice prepense (for such a thing constitutes an accident or oversight on the part of the shipper), receive a package, of the contents of which he is ignorant, in order to be able to manifest it, he has to hunt up an inspector de Almacenes, a man who seemingly has perfectly studied all the nooks and crannies of this city, and knows to perfection the exact spots where it is not likely to be found; and should he be so unfortunate as to be caught, after being duly bagged, the merchant has to employ the eloquence of a Cicero, and the logic of a Bishop Whately, to induce a vista to accompany him. This appeal is generally met with feeble remonstrances on the state of the weather. 'It's too hot,' or 'It's too cold,' 'There's the devil's own dust and a powerful sun!' finishing up with 'Let us go, although I do so under protest. Remember, you follow, you are forcing me to do a thing my very soul abhors—my duty.' If, when arriving at the Deposit, the packages be not all ready opened, he sets to slanging the unfortunate merchant's clerk, telling him to hold his tongue, although the man has not opened his mouth.

The short and pleasing operation of opening a package, in order to manifest its contents, only occupies one day, and who is there so poor-spirited as to find fault with this perfection of 'not doing'? It is true that this can scarcely be cited as a fair specimen of the other public offices, as the Custom-house is, perhaps, one of the most important branches of the Administration, and in the inferior offices less perfection and regularity in 'not doing' may be found.

Perhaps some of that hard-to-please body of the community, 'merchants,' might desire, in the smallness of their spite, to see this state of affairs overturned, and things allowed to be done, not left undone; but these grumblers, if such a class of miscreants do exist, must form, we sincerely hope, but a very small item in the population of 'quien sabe' and 'mañana Portenos.'

Honor to whom Honor is due.

With pleasure we congratulate the National Government on the strenuous efforts they are making to elevate the profession of arms to a dignified level.

We hear that there is a class for the study of mathematics and artillery to be established under the care of the respected and scientific Don Mariano Moreno, vice President of the Topographical Department. It is some time since Señor Moreno first thought of this important step, and now, in spite of all the difficulties he had to encounter, he has succeeded in carrying his point. To Sergeant Major Bejoberno and his young brothers have been added two youths of the furthest advancements in their studies, and who, in the opinion of their Chiefs merit this distinction, on account of their aptitude in acquiring knowledge of the profession which they have chosen. The two young men chosen are Don José Soto and Don N. Cordova: much may be expected of the two, judging from the talents they display.

This country may well be pleased with the National Government, and especially with the distinguished Sr. Moreno.

STATE OF THE CAMP.

To the Editors of the 'Standard.' Gentlemen,

In reference to your remarks on the state of the camp, would you allow me to say, that a large proportion of the camp in the Capilla were good before the rain of Saturday, and now, instead of being worse, are quite the reverse. As to Mr. Ferrer, and his 5 dollar sheep, I think some of the 'bears' have been taking a squeeze out of him. Furthermore, I would observe that, comparatively speaking, the losses have not been so great, but the herd ship endured in moving, &c, immense, and I would suggest that great care should be taken in believing current rumours. The camps, of course, are in a terrible state; but there are exceptions, and timely moving has saved losses.

Yours, CAPILLERO.

A Greenhorn's View of Sheep-farming near Buenos Ayres.

Time—January 1862.

Hotel Globo, Jan. 10, 1864.

My dear Editor,

A league of camp hereabouts is thought a very fine thing. It has cost, or was valued at, about a million of paper dollars. The owner, hitherto, has held his head high up in the air, and received with condescension the bland business smile of his bankers, as he paid in his wool money, and in answer to the respectful inquiry of 'how is the camp looking?' &c, saying, 'very well, indeed, I have 25,000 sheep on my land, and I mean to increase to 30,000 this year.' Little did that estanciaero, in the pride of his heart, heed the advice of his manager, that there were sheep enough there already, and that grass at times came somewhat short; and less did he think about what that league was called upon to provide for the existing 25,000 sheep: he did not take his pencil and calculate this—2,000 sheep require 600 lbs of grass each per day for their sustenance, which comes to 75 tons per day; and, bless me, is it possible? 27,375 tons per year, and, let me see, that is about 5 tons of grass to each acre, where is the land that can do it regularly? About water, I know there are two small pools, which, of course, must be always enough for the animals. At two pints a day each, how much does it come to?—it is a long sum, but here goes: 50,000 pints are 25,000 quarts, 6,250 gallons per day, and for the year, 2,281,250 gallons—the weight would be about 12,000 tons, and then there is the evaporation, which in summer takes away half an inch a day. Heavens! I hope it will rain for half an hour every night when I am in bed. I think I had better not increase the stock. However (he did say) 'latam is a bore, and it is time to kiss for the 'Progreso Hall,' I wonder if Louisa — will be there. She is a splendid girl, and I flatter myself, 'ha, ha, ha.' Don Carlos, indeed, poor fellow, 'ha, ha, ha.' The certain drops on 18-2, and rises again.

January 1864—Estanciaero is at his bankers, who are polite, but of late rather stiff, in their manner. After 'good morning,' he is requested to walk this way a moment. On entering the manager's room, he is reminded that his account is a long way overdrawn, must adhere to the rules of the bank, &c. Would any one believe it, Louisa — cut him; yes, cut him dead, as he passed her on his way home (but he saw that Don Carlos receive a most gracious bow), where he found another of those horrid letters from Mr. Brown, the manager. It ran thus:—'Carmen de Arena, January 1864.—Dear Sir—Since my last, the sheep have been dying away fast, over 10,000 are dead up to this date, the remainder are far too weak to move a league towards the camp outside (that you informed me of in your last letter.) I am sorry to say, Sir, that the only way to keep the stock alive, is to send me funds to buy baled hay for them; 2 lbs. is the smallest quantity per head per day, to be of any use, which for 15,000 will come to 30,000 lbs, or 15 tons, which at 50 dollars the ton (Spanish), comes to 7,500 dollars a day. Now, as the sheep will require the hay for the next two months, please send me 450,000 dollars, which is the exact sum I shall require for 60 days. I am glad to say, we have plenty of water now, but water on an empty stomach does not agree with either Mrs. B— or me, or the sheep.

Your obedient servant, JOHN BROWN.

Estanciaero, cursing Mr. and Mrs. J. B.'s stomachs, but feeling his own a little queer, made a calculation for the first time in his life: thus 15,000 sheep at 40 dollars come to 600,000 dollars; deduct to keep them alive next two months, 450,000 dollars; leaves but 150,000 dollars, which makes their present value 10 dollars a head. These figures, and the recollection of the dead cut by the faithless Louisa, drove the poor fellow mad. He made up his mind to sell the camp, sheep, and all, and travel and forget his sorrows. On reaching his broker's, he was informed that just now for camp and sheep there were no purchasers—all sellers and no buyers—but that perhaps 250,000 dollars for the sheep might be obtained in a few days. Where he retired to after leaving the office, no one knows, except John Brown.

Now, Mr. Editor, at the risk of being called a fool by all the owners of land and sheep in Buenos Ayres, I will state what I think. Estanciaero was worth, some time ago, as follows:—one league of land 800,000 dollars; 25,000 sheep at 40 dollars, 1,000,000 dollars; and house, monte, puesto, corrales, &c, 250,000—altogether, 2,350,000 dollars, which, if he had realized and placed out here on mortgage, with good security, at ten per cent, he would have had an income of 235,000 dollars a year, and if he made out of his league that regularly, year after year, I am much mistaken. Even if he had confined himself to 15,000 sheep on his league, he would not be the unhappy man he is now, with his sheep scratching up the roots of the grass in search after food, thus destroying future prospects. I think the true value of a league of the best camp in Buenos Ayres is 25,000 dollars, and every sheep over 15,000 on it is one too many. If a man confines himself to that number, he need not fear a 'seca.' I am quite certain that there is no league of land in this country that will go on for ever sustaining five sheep to each acre; and I hold the man who attempts to place that number on it to be a greater greenhorn than Your's, &c.

Yours, &c. EKRS.

SOUTH AUSTRALIA SHEEP-FARMING.

The sheep-farming interest of the colony has suffered somewhat from the introduction of the troublesome disease known as the scab. This disease which was imported from Victoria, is very contagious and spread with great rapidity. The first proposal was in conformity with the provisions of an existing Act—to destroy all infected flocks, and to compensate the owners. But the Government, in defiance of the enforcement of the law, and the sheep-farmers themselves disputed as to its policy. Meanwhile the disease rapidly spread, and, after much wavering, it has been finally decided that there are too many sheep diseased to make it expedient to slaughter them. A stringent Act, borrowed from the neighboring colonies of Victoria and South Australia, is to be passed, compelling sheep-owners, under heavy and increasing penalties, to cure their sheep, and inflicting heavy fines for allowing diseased stock to stray or travel. It is hoped that in the course of 12 months the disease may be substantially got under; but many old and experienced sheep-farmers shake their heads at the prospect and declare that it was a fatal mistake not to have extirpated the disease at once, at whatever cost. Sheep runs have necessarily become somewhat depreciated in price and difficult for sale, and the banks have largely restricted their accommodation.

There has been no further development of our goldfields, and trade is rather dull. The most expansive part of our colonial trade just now is the development of our coalfields. Many new mines have been opened, and the competition has led to a reduction in price, as well as to an improvement in quality.

THE EXODUS.

The past week has witnessed, probably, the climax of the emigration from the country through Queenstown. No less than five ocean steamers left this port between Monday morning and Saturday evening, for the United States and Canada; conveying about 1,500 souls, and these almost exclusively belonging to the working classes. The inducements to emigrate still continue the same—discontent, uncertainty of a return upon labour, and low wages at home contrasted with cheap land, high priced labour, and a propitious climate abroad. The first and last mentioned are the chief attractions to the farmers of this country, and they are frequently known to surrender their farms to the landlord at a premium, when they hold them under lease, or sell their interest in them at a sacrifice, in order that while a little capital is left them, and before it may be exhausted by another bad season, they may take it with them across the Atlantic, and there invest it to advantage. The young men who now constitute about a moiety of the emigrants, propose devoting themselves to manual labour, which is now so highly remunerated in the States. Females are more numerous than ever, and children muster pretty strong at each embarkation, in most cases accompanying their parents. Indeed, the reunion of Irish families (that have been for years separated by the ocean) in the United States appears to be taking place most extensively, while there are as many adventurous agriculturists flocking to North America, as though it were some of El Dorado but recently become known to these countries. The counties in Ireland which contribute the largest quota to the stream are still Tipperary, Limerick, Clare, and Kerry. The emigration from Cork has almost ceased, and the number going from Kerry has somewhat decreased during the past few weeks, but the exodus from the other counties we have named still continues unabated.—Cork Herald.

Oriental Steamers.—The Trenta y tres and the Artigas were still in port with the troops which had been shipped on board of them.

The want has long been felt of an establishment wherein the frugal and laborious citizen might deposit his savings, so as to incur no risk, and reap at the same time a good return.

This institution is calculated to answer the purpose of extending the benefits of the establishment to even the humbler classes.

Public attention is, therefore, especially called to the manner of subscriptions, and the investment of funds, according to the rules of the association.

The PREVISORA ARGENTINA will receive subscriptions as follows:

1st. On one's own life, in shares of $5 either each. These subscriptions liquidated at any time at the subscriber's time and option.

2nd. Without loss of capital by death of the insurer. Subscribers will be entitled to compound interest on their subscriptions and the proportional interest for returned by the death of other shareholders in their Class, whose capital, however is forfeited.

3rd. With loss of capital and interest by insurer's death. All shareholders of this class shall gain compound interest on their subscriptions, besides a proportional part of the capital and interest of all who die in their Class.

All these subscriptions may be paid weekly, monthly, quarterly, half yearly, or yearly.

The capital of the Company shall be invested only in landed property (finca), and with the greatest security.

The Board of Inspection, composed of subscribers, shall have charge of all the operations of the Company.

For further particulars, apply at the Co's office 87 calle S. Martin (altos) between houses of 11 - 4; prospectus given on application.

SAVINGS BANK.

BANK MAU & CO.

No. 103 calle de Cangallo.

BUENOS-AYRES.

The improved advantages of Accounts Current are now so generally felt, and appreciated in the present emergency of the River Plate—Montevideo & Buenos Ayres—that there are a very few elements who fail to keep one at the bank in which they place the most confidence.

The Bank of Mau & Co. in Montevideo, has already provided for the working class in that city a safe & profitable depository for their savings.

The sums deposited in that most important institution are daily increasing and already reach a very large amount.

These advantages have not hitherto been enjoyed in this city by an immense number of Clerks, artisans, workmen & servants of all classes & conditions, who are equally interested in parting their savings out at interest, thus providing themselves with a reserve fund in case of need, sickness or old age, instead of sending them in the immoral gambling, in lotteries and other frivolities.

The Bank of Mau & Co. of this city following the example of their CONDITIONS.

- 1st. The Bank receives at interest any sum from Twenty five dollars currency or one dollar upwards.
- 2nd. The interest allowed is six per cent (6%) per annum which is liquidated every six months.
- 3rd. The depositor can at any time retain the whole or part of the money deposited.
- 4th. Once the amount deposited exceeds Twenty five thousand dollars currency, or one thousand dollars silver the depositor if he wishes can open an account current according to the rules established by the Bank.
- 5th. In case the depositor loses his Pass Book it can be replaced by another on paying twelve dollars currency, and advertising the loss in the public newspapers.
