PROTRACTED QUESTIONS

It frequently happens that a trifling matter of politics suffices to embroil a whole kingdom or even several States...

The capital question in Buenos Ayres is somewhat similar, and the real matter at issue is lost sight of...

There is an advantage in these protracted questions: that they seldom terminate in a configuration, and though the political atmosphere be surcharged...

EDITOR'S TABLE

Buenos Ayres is at last out of mourning for the King of Denmark, and people seem to have regained their wonted cheerfulness.

The weather seems at last about to break. Yesterday, in the morning, there was a great appearance of a storm...

Questions long protracted, like a low constantly bent, or an uncorked bottle of smelling-salts, lose their force, and evaporate.

CAMP POLITICS

Nothing can more thoroughly prove the root which politics have in this country, than the fact that, notwithstanding the present lamentable state of the camp...

We have to thank Dr. Eguin for favouring the public with his interesting meteorological table, a synopsis of which will be found in another column.

The charges against Gelly Obes for spending the public money, in support of Flores, have neither been retraced nor refuted.

A farmer called on us yesterday to say that in Matanzas and Moreno, the oblivion. The drama is generally speaking the well of the world, who upon the Machiavel principle is filled by the odd sixpence, whilst the Estados man who lives on his income, and has material interests at stake both in the rain and President Mitre.

If we pursue our observations a little further we shall find that the crudo in the country districts is generally speaking the man who has least to lose in case of a row, whilst the coicido has but the prospect of beggary if a revolution occurs.

It is said, we know not with what truth, that notwithstanding all the efforts of Messrs Acosta and Dominguez, that many of the country justices of the peace are more in favour of the National than the Provincial Governments...

Furthermore, it is essential that it be thoroughly explained to the people in the country, that the Club del Pueblo labours solely for peace and the continuance of the present order of things...

As a general rule the people in the camp are all in favour of Mitre and his Government, and by the very smallest exertion on the part of the coicidos, such an overwhelming majority can be secured at the next elections...

On the 14th inst. about 3 p.m., in the street of General Brown, a scandalous affair took place. Nino, the Alcalde of that district, in company of another person, both on horseback and intoxicated, passed along that street.

The Alcalde's companion, perhaps on account of the state in which he was, was unable to manage his horse, and rode over a small child of two years of age.

Nino, insulting the Doctor, seized the reins of his horse, and dealt him so severe a blow that Deroxeux fell down.

The Alcalde dismounted, and showing him, ordered him to go along as prisoner. "Leave me alone," said the Dr., "and I'll go."

Nino, excited with drink, commenced beating him with his rebenque. The Doctor, in self defence, seized hold of the Alcalde, and threw him on the ground.

"Pitch into that blackguard of a Frenchman," shrieked Nino, "even although you kill him."

The vigilantes, being in the same state of clearheadedness as their superior, did not wait for second orders, but commenced cutting right and left.

Naturally enough this scandalous row attracted the attention of the neighbours, who called out to Nino to spare the Doctor, and one lady, unable to witness such a scene, addressed herself to the Alcalde, requesting him not to allow an old man, who was already down, to be so badly treated.

The lady was severely wounded on the head with the butt end of the rebenque, and is now confined to bed.

The Comisario Leguizamón now appeared upon the scene, and ordered the two prisoners to proceed under charge of the Alcalde.

On the way, the Comisario told Deroxeux that his gold lace did not matter one straw, and on the Doctor replying, he received more blows.

It is patent in the Boca that the Comisario received notice from the Policía that the process formed against him for the disturbances on the day of the elections would be quashed, and that on account of this pardon, the Alcalde and vigilantes were going about with sword and pistol in hand, shouting "Down with the Gringos!"

Dr. Deroxeux has suffered severely, not only from the blows he received, but also from his six hours confinement in the stocks.
