 SUNDAY, JANUARY 24, 1864.

THE DUST NUISANCE.

Choked, smothered, and utterly overpowered with the nature of the subject before us, our ideas become congealed, leaving us hardly sufficient energies to protest against a barbarous municipality which takes our money with unfeeling regularity, yet covously looks on at the terrible plague that sweeps through our streets, like the destroying angel. The dust! the dust! Such is the alarm cry which greets us on all sides, when mothers clasp their babes and shut the windows, when strong men are borne down by the whirlwind, when shop keepers find themselves in a state of siege, and wayfarers eagerly seek the shelter of some friendly door, to escape convulsions or suffocation. The smog of the Arabs is not more inconvenient than a dust storm in B. Ayres, for if we could escape the latter by lying down on our faces for half an hour, there would be little cause to complain. When, however, we bear in mind how easily the nuisance might be remedied, our sufferings are increased tenfold, and curses loud and deep are invoked on our effete corporation. A dozen water carts daily, at a trifling cost, would effectually lay the dust, and remove one of the greatest obstacles to commerce and inconveniences to private life which afflict this miserable town. There is not a small market village in Europe which would tolerate this nuisance for a month: the women would protest, the men cause a revolution, the Government take immediate reformatory steps, the Church declare an interdict, the editors rave, even the physicians join the tumult for they should be unable to make their rounds in visiting the numerous victims.

In the decayed metropolis of Ireland the water used for irrigating the streets is brought a distance of forty miles, while in this grand, progressive and go-ahead city of Buenos Ayres, with the River Plate washing our boulevards, we are left to suffer and die of dust. London, Paris, Rome, New York and the other capitals have a regular service of water-carts, at considerable expense, the water being conveyed by aqueducts or canals; but the Argentine capital requires no such artificial supplies, for Nature provides us with abundance.

The damage occasioned by the dust is something stupendous. We may safely calculate that 100 persons are annually injured or deprived of eyesight, and that 150,000 coats and hats, representing $100,000,000 are utterly destroyed. The items are not exaggerated, and are well worthy the attention of any thoughtful member of the Municipality.

In the camp the dust nuisance is even more terrible than in town, but unfortunately without hope of remedy by human means. Storms, which obscure the sun at noon, sweep across the Pampas, burning all signs of vegetation, blocking up the entrances to dwelling houses, and choking the wells. In some places the dust like snow drift, forms an immense heap against the ranchos, penetrates the straw roofs and covers everything indoors with a thick layer. The wholesale disappearance of cattle threatens a famine, but the pangs of thirst are still more to be dreaded, and water has become quite scarce for several leagues, the wells being either putrid or utterly filled up.

Not long ago we related the case of an estanciero who was overtaken, on his way towards home, by one of these dust storms, and having buried his head in a buschco hole, was found smothered. Some travellers say that they travelled leagues without being able to procure a glass of water. We know of a man who offered $100,000 for permission to water a flock of sheep on posanto to the frontier, and yet he was refused. Another took the trouble to construct two "jugües" on his route, at the expense of 10,000 dollars.

In fine the camps of Buenos Ayres, formerly (in M. Sastre's language) a smiling Eden, is now becoming a dusty wilderness, something like the sandy deserts of Sahara. The Indian territory also said to be suffering from this cause, and the drought has even affected Entre Rios, although in the latter

EDITOR'S TABLE.

There is not a particle of news stirring: things could not be duller for newspaper editors. We have sent all round the city to try and pick up something, but there is nothing anywhere, save Cocido and a few perspiring, demoralised Crudos. A good deal of inquiry was made yesterday about the foreigner in the Nacional, but he has proved a myth, and it is believed that the letter was written by one of the juvenile editors of that expiring journal, who prefer false colors to their own.

The most alarming news we can treat our readers to is that Horace Varela has bought the 'Mosquito'; the price mentioned is very high, and we can hardly believe it—five hundred ounces. It is also said that the silent editor, Dr. Hector himself, helped his brother to pay for it. We hope to see an improvement in this hitherto rather stale caricaturist. Portefios regard the 'Mosquito' as a sort of River Plate 'Punch', but it is a sort of punch without the whiskey or lemon. We suppose, however, under the able auspices of the new proprietors it will be made a little more spicy.

Our French colleague, 'Le Progres', gave on Thursday evening a caricature of the Post-office and our Postmaster. If there is a go-ahead public officer in Buenos Ayres, it is Cervasio Posadas. During business hours he is at all times accessible; he has, since he took charge of the Post-office, raised the administration to what it is. Owing to the tide of immigration now setting in, the letters despatched and received have augmented tenfold within the last few years. Intimately acquainted as we are with the difficulties attending Mr. Posadas' office, we must say that if the 'Progres' had no other subject for a caricature than the gentlemanly and polished G. Posadas, they had better keep to writing editorials than attempt to ridicule a man who deserves every praise for his untiring exertions to introduce useful reforms. There are, no doubt, complaints against the Post-office, and many who find their letters mislaid, feel aggrieved, but 'Rome was not built in a day.' The manner in which thousands of letters come addressed would baffle even the genius of the editor of the 'Progres' himself. Every steamer in Europe brings us letters directed to Irishmen in the most unintelligible manner; for instance, 'Mr. P. Murphy, the Camps, Buenos Aires.' A native clerk in the Post-office gets hold of this letter: what can he make of it? The French addresses are still more absurd, abounding with all sorts of hieroglyphics. The Postmaster-General very properly sends all the English, Irish, Scotch, American, and even German letters to us to publish, and the result is there are very few un-called-for letters lying in the Post-office. We think it right, therefore, to testify to the exertions of M. Posadas, and consider the caricature of the 'Progres' most un-called-for.

We hear that the revolution in the Banda Oriental, like the drought in Buenos Ayres, has caused hundreds of families to emigrate. The Orientals however have gone over to the islands in the Uruguay, and have settled down there as farmers and wood cutters. Almost every Island in the Uruguay is now populated, and in many the wheat and maize crops have given immense returns. In one of the largest islands which is never submerged, the squatters are talking of building a town, but we apprehend this would be a rather dangerous outlay.

The Villa del Salto, we are happy to hear, is again all right. She has arrived at Paysandu with a few troops.

We regret to say that some of Flores' soldiers have committed the most frightful barbarities in Salta. Having caught some of the Government soldiers, they bound them hand and foot, and having cut off their ears and committed other atrocities on their person, set them at liberty. We are assured on the highest authority that this is a positive fact.

The English packet sails on Tuesday. Our edition for Europe will be ready at eight o'clock on Tuesday morning.

FOREIGN OPINION.

There are some falsehoods so absurd as not to merit the pains of refutation, and of this kind is a spurious article in Friday's Nacional, which we had intended to leave in the obscurity of twilight (moral as well as physical) which surrounds the editorial chair of the rabid anti-foreign organ. It is not long

IMPORTANT FROM CORDOBA
FIVE DEPUTIES EXPELLED
 On the 13th inst. the Chamber met and ratified the late elections; it also sanctioned the national law of elections as applicable to the province. Dr. Echeique introduced a motion to expel the five members composing the 'moderate' party, which was also carried. This has caused a great sensation, as the 'ultras' have everything their own way: the expelled deputies have protested. The actual Governor, Ferreira, was elected on the 8th inst., to act ad interim, after the expiration of his term. The 'ultras' will gain the election for Governor.

Colonel Dominguez, of the Cordoba staff, has left for Villanueva: during the last year his recruits for the National army only number 11 men. The Governor has demanded of the Chamber leave to mobilise the National Guard, in order to protect the frontiers, seeing the frequent and daring inroads of Indians. The city is vigilantly guarded with sentinels, and patrols traverse the streets at night, for fear of a revolution.

D. Mardoqueo Molina has published his petition to the Federal Judge against the Governor of Catamarca. He states, that on December 1st he was dragged from his house and thrown into prison, on Maubecin's verbal order, without being informed of any alleged cause for same. Capt. Pucheta having been shot, summarily, although he had fought against the Chacho rebels, the irons were taken off the corpse and put on Molina, who was then obliged, from terror, to sign a confession of treason. Molina was then banished. Dr. Laspur has admitted his protest, and the press of Cordoba eagerly demands National intervention in the affairs of Catamarca. A row is expected in Cordoba on the 28th inst.

GOLD MINES IN CATAMARCA.
Earthquake in Tucuman.
 A letter from Catamarca, dated Jan. 9th, in the Ferro-carri, reports the discovery of a vein of gold in the mine called Rosario belonging to Molina bros. of that city. Two bars of the precious metal have been sent by diligence to Cordoba. The inhabitants were filled with joy at the happy tidings, notwithstanding the barbarities of Maubecin's reign of terror in Catamarca. Numbers of the most respectable proprietors have been banished, and the rights of person and property outraged; but a new Constitution has been promulgated for the province, ordering all officials to respect civic rights, after Jan. 1st 1864. Senator Moreno, Deputy Ocampo and others have made a protest before the district Federal Judge, against the Governor's acts; but this is of little avail, for the Judge himself has had to 'clear out' the printing office brought from Europe by public subscription, has been confiscated for Government use, to publish the Libertad, which is edited by the prime-minister Santona. Maubecin has disagreed with his party, and Sor Lobo is endeavoring to upset him, and make room for his own nephew. The Civic Register ordered by law has not been opened, the people being afraid of shooting or banishment.

An earthquake was felt at Tucuman on the 3rd January, at 10 p.m. The shock was very slight, and had been preceded by a heavy fall of rain and decline of the barometer.

COTTON.
 We are informed by Her Majesty's Consul at Rosario, that in a letter received by him from the eminent brokers, Messrs. Stollerfoht Sons and Co. of Liverpool (under date 8th December last) it is stated:—"The American war shows no signs of coming to a conclusion, and as our supplies of cotton from other sources increase comparatively slowly, our prices are not, we think, likely to sustain any violent fluctuations—although they may vary 2d. or 3d. per lb. up or down.

This information ought to be an incentive to Argentine cotton cultivators. Messrs. Stollerfoht's circular (Dec. 4th) also says:—
 The imports, &c., into Great Britain during the last eleven months of the year were as follows:—
 1863—Imports—American 120, E. Indian 1303; total 1790. Home deliveries—American 115, E. Indian 887; total 139. Exports—American 12, E. Indian 501; total 611. Stock 1st Dec.—American 34, E. Indian 215; total 290 m. b.
 1862—Imports—American 69, E. Indian 931; total 1200. Home deliveries—Amer. 193, E. Indian 608; total

1010, Exports—Amer. 30, E. Indian 411; total 633. Stock 1st Dec.—Amer. 74, E. Indian 290; total 423.
 And the comparative weekly deliveries were—
 1863—American 2,406, Brazil 2,103, W. Indian 939, East Indian 18,604, Mediterranean 3,830, total 20,882 bales.
 1862—American 1,013, Brazil 1,923, W. Indian 211, East Indian 12,702, Mediterranean 2,261, total 21,213 bales.
 The average weekly consumption of 1862 was—
 American 5,094, Brazil 1,061, West Indian 453, East Indian 13,305, Mediterranean, 3,115; total 22,990 bales.

It will be seen from the above that our Imports exceed those of last year by fifty per cent. A great controversy is now going on respecting the Supply to be expected next year, but the data upon which the various estimates are based are so insufficient that they present little more than guesses beyond this fact, that the cultivation has certainly been greatly extended in various quarters and that most of the crops promise a very good result. Much stress is laid upon this point and coupled with the altered appearance of the Money market, it has put a full stop to the Cotton Speculation. Up to Monday the business was considerable at very full prices, but since then the business has dwindled down to about 2,000 bales per day. The sales of the week may appear large under such circumstances, but a good deal of the Cotton lately arrived has probably been forwarded direct to the Spinners and returned as sold. Prices have become nominal, the decline varies from 1 1/2d. to 2 1/2d. per lb. We quote Midding Orleans 26 1/4d. Mobiles and Uplands 6 1/2d per lb, Brazils 1 1/2 d. per lb. Egyptian 2d. A sale of January shipment is reported at 24 1/2d. for fair which on Monday was worth 27d. per lb. East India is fully 2d. per lb. lower both on the spot and to arrive, but for the latter there are hardly any buyers. The Trade have taken 25,570 bales, Exporters 1,690 bales and Speculators 15,220 bales Actual Exporter 4,830 bales At Sea from India for Liverpool 150,000 bales against same time last year.

SHEEP-FARMING.
 Hotel Globo, Jan. 23, 1864.
 My dear Dick—Salutation from your fraternal Edward. I am most happy to find that there are two 'greenhorns' in the Plate. Until I read your letter, I thought I was the only one, unless (always excepted) the fellow who came out here with the bag-full of letters of introduction. We must give in to him: he beats us both—he was an ass. But now to business. Another Dick, I do not know whether you meant it or not, but your letter corroborates every word I said in my last about overstocking land; and the moral which I draw from your tale amounts simply to this, that a man had better cut his own throat at once, for fear some one at a future day might do it for him; or in other words, that a man with his eyes open, and his senses about him, has no alternative but to join with his neighbours in the race to ruin, by putting 30,000 sheep on his league, for the purpose of starving his neighbour's animals, and to turn his camp into a sandy desert. I am quite aware of the difficulties, in the way of keeping animals off good camp, and I did not undertake to solve them, I only stated my opinion as to the excessive amount of stock hitherto kept. How Mr. A—'s stock is to be kept off Mr. B—'s land I do not know, and, between ourselves, suppose we leave that question to the third 'greenhorn' of the Plate, we must have another brother, about here, some where (thistles being most years plenty) I know that the expense of wire-fencing is too great for nine out of ten persons to think of such a thing; no ditch will keep animals out for any length of time. But could not the farmers, among themselves, in each district, form a sort of jury to decide how many sheep each ought to keep, according to his land, &c.? Such things are done in other countries, and even laws passed to give powers to the jury of farmers, to enable them to enforce their decisions. This is a free country, I am told, but, at the same time, it is preposterous to suppose that a dishonest man or a fool is to be allowed to place so many sheep, &c., on his land, that it is apparent they must die, or feed on other people's camp, either by night or by day, leaving the neighbours, in self-defence (and against their judgment), the only alternative of doing the same. However, this I take to be the most difficult question before the public at present, and all persons who have experience here should ponder the matter over. The present state of things cannot continue. The controversy between Ferrer and 'Capileiro' waxes warm and personal; but as regards the price of sheep, I beg to assure 'Capileiro,' and any one else, that I am empowered to dispose of 15,000 merino sheep, now on camps within 15 leagues of Buenos Ayres, at from 10 to 15 dollars a-head. These sheep will be disposed of in large or small lots, to suit purchasers. The animals are in various stages of condition, some lots stronger than others; but intending purchasers can, at small expense, see for themselves. Apply,

No. 88; at this hotel; between 8 and two o'clock.
 Dear Dick, your affectionate Brother,
 NRDY ERIN.

CHURCH MUSIC.
 To the Editors of the 'Standard.'
 Gentlemen,
 Permit me, through the columns of the 'Standard,' to make a few remarks on a subject of the deepest interest to the Scotch residents in Buenos Ayres.

The respected clergyman of the Presbyterian Church in this city, intimated, a few days ago, that on the part of some of the members of the congregation, there was a strong desire to introduce some changes into the present system of conducting public worship. It is proposed by these parties, that for the future it shall be the custom to kneel during prayer, and to stand during praise; and I believe the idea of introducing instrumental music, is also under consideration.

So far as I can learn, the principal argument in favour of these changes is founded on the fact, that an improvement is desirable. Granting that such an improvement is desirable, there surely might be found some means of effecting it, without interfering with the established and cherished forms of the church. If it be argued that a standing is better than a sitting, posture for producing good vocal music, I answer that the benefit thus gained is dearly bought, when it is at the price of the standard forms by which our forefathers and we have been wont to worship. I have no doubt, that a person possessed of a fine musical taste, and critically disposed, may find much in our singing that is painful to his ear, and at variance with the laws of harmony; and in what church would he not? But I would remind such a one, that during worship, it is not so much an object to get music artistically exact, as to give to young and old, to cultivated and uncultivated, to musical and unmusical, an opportunity of joining in the praise of their Maker. And however rude it may appear to cultivated ears, critically acute, such praise must, from its very nature, have much of both poetry and beauty.

From the mixed character that any congregation, foreign to this country must necessarily have, it will always be a matter of extreme difficulty to get singing of a high class; but that is no reason why we should have recourse to new forms; that our faults may be less perceptible; it is rather a reason for the congregation continuing their weekly practice of music, and for the guardians and instructors of youth, seeing that singing is more attended to as a branch of education.

I believe the arguments have been brought forward, that as standing is a more respectful attitude than sitting, and that as in private worship we kneel during prayer, these positions ought to be adopted in public. I do not think that any one can seriously accuse the Scotch congregation of a want of respect or of reverence in church; nor do I think that any one can seriously believe that the public worship of God ought to be regulated by the customs of private families.

The simplicity of the forms of the Presbyterian religion has long been considered as a distinguishing feature worthy of admiration, and an humble member and admirer of this church fondly hopes that she may long continue in that unaffected course which has made her "loved at home, revered abroad."

I am Sir
 Your respectfully,
 Bos's.

IRELAND.
 There is a remarkable difference of opinion between the Irish 'Nationalists,' on the right of the Southern States of America to fight for their independence. Mr. Smith O'Brien, holds that they have a right to assert their independence. On the contrary, the O'Donoghue contends that no such right exists, and that the views of Mr. Smith O'Brien, as expressed in his letter to General Meagher, are not only the views of the English oligarchy and the West Britons of Ireland, but also, alas! of the well meaning but mistaken few who carry their theories on the right of self-government to a length which would justify every parish in setting up for itself; and that the Southern have no more right to set up for themselves than the agricultural districts of England had on the passing of the Corn Laws, or than the 'Prentice Boys of Derry' would have to set up for themselves if Ireland were an independent nation, and if the majority of Irishmen objected to the shutting of the gates on the famous anniversary of Parson Walker's barring out." From this the National differs, and maintains that the sympathies of Ireland ought not to be on the side of the North because the sympathies of England are on the side of the South but should be with the right, or whatever side it may be found. It is curious

ENGLISH GRAMMAR SCHOOL, CALLE LARGA DE BARRACAS.

Dr. P. PONGERARD, of the London University College.

This Establishment, which from its foundation has been patronised by the principal British families of Buenos Ayres...

An over-watchful and constant supervision, and a strict maintenance of order and propriety, are a sufficient guarantee...

The different branches taught in the English Grammar School comprise: English, French and Spanish languages, History, Geography, Arithmetic, and Book-keeping...

Extra branches, such as Latin, Mathematics, German, Arabic and Drawing, are also taught by special masters.

The situation of the English Grammar School, in one of the most delightful Quintas of the Calle Larga de Barracas, at the very gates of the city, is one of the most beautiful and picturesque of the environs of Buenos Ayres.

For particulars apply for prospectuses at the Standard Office, Calle Belgrano 71.

OFFICIALS.
 D. Antonio Garcia y Garcia, Manager
 D. Estanquillo Riestra, Suo Manager
 D. Juan Casado, Secretary.

Offices—87 calle SAN MARTIN.

The want has long been felt of an establishment wherein the frugal and laborious citizen might deposit his savings, so as to incur no risk, and reap at the same time a good return.

This institution is calculated to answer such a purpose extending the benefits of the establishment to even the humbler classes.

Public attention is, therefore, especially called to the manner of subscriptions, and the inversion of funds, according to the rules of the association.

The PREVISORA ARGENTINA will receive subscriptions as follows:

- 1st. On one's own life, in shares of $5 silver each. These subscriptions liquidated at any time at the subscriber's time and option.
- 2nd. Without loss of capital by death of the insurer. Subscribers will be entitled to compound interest on their subscriptions and the proportional interest forfeited by the death of other shareholders in their Class, whose capital, however is returned.
- 3rd. With loss of capital and interest by insurer's death. All shareholders of this class shall gain compound interest on their subscriptions, besides a proportional part of the capital and interest of all who die in their Class.

All these subscriptions may be paid weekly, monthly, quarterly, half yearly, or yearly.

The capital of the Company shall be invested only in landed property (finca), and with the greatest security.

The Board of Inspection, composed of subscribers, shall have charge of all the operations of the Company.

For further particulars, apply at the Co's office 87 calle S. Martin (altos) between the hours of 11—4; prospectuses given on application.

SAVINGS BANK.
BANK MAUÁ & C^o
 — No. 103 calle de Cangallo. —

BUENOS-AYRES.

The immense advantages of Accounts Current are now so generally felt, and appreciated in the two great emporiums of the River Plate—Montevideo & Buenos Ayres—that there are very few Merchants who fail to keep one at the Bank in which they place the most confidence.

The Bank of Mauá & Co. in Montevideo has already provided for the working class in that city, a safe & profitable depository for their savings.

The sums deposited in that most important institution are daily increasing and already reach a very large amount.

These advantages have not hitherto been enjoyed in this city by an immense number of Clerks, artisans, working-men & servants of all classes & conditions, who are equally interested in putting their savings out at interest, thus providing themselves with a reserve fund in case of need, sickness or old age, instead of spending them in the immoral gambling, in lotteries and other frivolities.

The Bank of Mauá & Co. of this city following the example of their

Buenos Ayres September 19th 1863.

p. p. Mauá & Co.
WILLIAM LESLIE.

CONDITIONS.

- 1st. The Bank receives at interest any sum from Twenty five dollars currency or one silver dollar upwards.
- 2nd. The interest allowed is six per cent (6%) per annum which is liquidated every six months.
- 3rd. The depositor can at any time retire the whole or part of the money deposited.
- 4th. Once the amount deposited exceeds Twenty five thousand dollars currency or one thousand dollars silver the depositor if he wishes can open an account current according to the rules established by the Bank.
- 5th. In case the depositor loses his Pass Book it can be replaced by another on paying twelve dollars currency, and advertising the loss in the public newspapers.
