All hail! audiam nil veri non audiam dicere. - Cicero. FRIDAY, MARCH 4, 1861.

MEDICAL REGISTER.

Is there any benighted individual in this great city who is unaware of the fact that we have a Medical Board?

If we do not see any tangible results in return for their salaries, let it not be argued that the members of the Medical Board enjoy a sinecure at the public expense.

Let no one say the Junta Hygienica is a humbug, for accidents will happen in the best regulated families.

It is, therefore, clear that the Board of Health is the most useful body of men in the country, although their labours are, through a sense of modesty, concealed from public view.

Meantime foreigners, above all, have strange prejudices, and we regret to inform President Mitre that there is considerable grumbling both as to the care of those still alive, and the returns of such as have been gathered to their fathers.

The best way to stop these slanders, is to name a native doctor without practice, giving him a good salary, who will oblige every physician to give a certificate of a man's death; and what he died of, publishing the register each day.

It is said that Mires, the French banker, began his fortune by publishing a daily report of those who died and the doctors who had attended them, until the latter bribed him handsomely to omit their names.

appreciated in the present age, and there are even some persons in Buenos Ayres who hesitate not to call the members a pack of old fools and an incubus on the public. How ungrateful!

RIVER PLATE MAGAZINE No. 3.

'History of the Argentine Confederation'—This is a continuation of an article which appeared in the former numbers, and is now brought down to the death of Yrala.

Travellers by Ocean steamers must have been struck with the universality of some of the pictures which adorn the saloons of the steamers: one in particular will, no doubt, have attracted their attention—a rocky bluff projecting into the sea; its feet laved by the surging waves, some sea fowls flying in a semi-maniacal manner, and one or two ships in sight, dignified with the name of Cape Hatteras, Cape Matapan, or the Point de Galle, according to the station on which the steamer runs.

It is true these pictures in different steamers have different names, but they are all the same; and on the same principle the 'River Plate Battle-fields,' for all it contains about the River Plate, might as well be called, 'War in general, and war with the Indians in particular.'

'Civilization y Barbarie' is an able and well written criticism on one of the few really good works which the guild of Spanish literature of the present century has produced.

'The Plague of Life,' a parody on Longfellow's 'Psalm of Life'—It has long been a question of dispute between scholars, which of the two—manufacture of jingling rhyme for burlesques and pantomimes, or parodying well-known writers, requires the smaller amount of talent joined to common sense.

'Falkner's Patagonia,' is a series of remarks published in 1771, by Father Falkner, an Irish Jesuit, on Patagonia and the adjoining parts of South America; by P. Cornelius Bliss.

'Physical Science' is more adapted for the platform of a mechanic's institute than for the pages of a magazine; in its proper place it would be very welcome, but here it is ponderous in the extreme, and is like talking to a man, on a broiling hot day, of plumpudding.

'The Black Man' is not the bogie with which we were frightened in our infantile days, but is an article on the negro race, by Herr Burmeister, who, much to our astonishment, acknowledges the soft impeachment of being the author of the 'Black Man,' thus satisfying Mr. Murray and his co-thinkers.

his disposal another instance of the peculiarity of the Blackman's head and foot.

In a typographical point of view, the magazine has been very well got up, and altogether the editor deserves great praise and support. It should be remembered that Buenos Ayres cannot compete with the European countries in diversity and excellence of materials for magazine compilation, and great charity should be displayed to such a hazardous enterprise as the River Plate Magazine.

COUNTER FORGERIES.

Dr. Acosta amuses the public by his indignation at the false despatches sent to Chascomús and Dolores. It seems, however, that forgery was employed on both sides, and if one be held up to infamy, there is no reason why the other should be suffered to play the Pharisee.

ITALIAN OPERA.

Madame Briol had a great triumph on her benefit night (Wednesday) in the role of Violetta. Although not equal to her Norma, we have never seen Traviata better played in Buenos Ayres.

The opening scene was much applauded, for Briol and Lelmi gave the drinking song with excellent taste. 'Quell di felice' was also beautifully rendered, and the fair artiste looked and sang the character, such as Verdi could desire, in the refrain 'Croce celestial.'

In compliment to the prima-donna, a military band was stationed at the doors of the theatre, and President Mitre (and family) honoured the function with his presence. The house was pretty full, at least 1300 seats being occupied: we remarked an unusually large attendance of English, and the boxes presented a charming array.

Playful Exhibition of Political Humour.

On the 23rd ult., whilst a group of people was standing in a shop in San Pedro, some rockets were fired off, when that excitable Irish party, Mr. James N called out, 'Viva el Presidente, y viva los Cucaños!' Amongst the crowd were the Alcalde of the 1st Cucaño (Cucaño) and his lieutenant, F. Serrano (Cucaño).

The postponement of the Southern Railway inauguration was hardly necessary, seeing that yesterday was a very fine day. The directors, however, shared the general opinion that we were going to have a heavy storm, and the excessive heat seems to indicate a storm probably before Monday.

In our article yesterday on the Great Southern Railway we omitted mentioning the Engineers and Directors. The omission was not casual, as we only took into consideration the prominent features which make this enterprise superior to anything hitherto known in B. Ayres.

The originator of the whole quarrel, Mr. James N—, has returned to Villa Mercedos, whence he is expected in San Pedro in 15 or 20 days, when the case will again be brought forward.

And, as he, perhaps, has been so long removed from all opportunities of gaining fresh information, we place at his disposal another instance of the peculiarity of the Blackman's head and foot.

mix themselves up in the political squabbles of this country! Most of us know from experience what severe headaches generally follow an election in Great Britain—headaches not, on these occasions, caused by wine, ale, or spirits, but by hard knobby blackthorns, and it is to be at all wondered at that the natives of this country are every bit as excitable on political subjects as we are ourselves?

TRIBUNA TRICKS.

It will be remembered that some months ago Mr. Patrick Wynne of Zarate prosecuted a man named Vasquez for sheep-stealing, and published the case in this paper. Mr. Juan Cruz Varela frightened him with a suit for defamation of his friend's character, and induced him to sign a paper and pay $300 to settle the case.

We have the pleasure to inform our readers that the cheat is now come to a denouement for so far from Mr. Wynne's publication in our columns being a calamity, he has just got an order to embargo the sheep of Vasquez on this charge, and the defendant has been only released from 'davao vile' on the guarantee of good bail.

We have been all horrified to learn that the Justice of Peace forwarded lists to the Government showing over 600 votes in this district (25 de Mayo) in favor of the Club Libertad (Crudos). I can solemnly affirm that we were some thirty neighbours on guard at the table, and the register was closed in our presence, and signed by the Juez de Paz and Commission, with 167 votes for the Club Libertad and 94 for the Club Pueblo.

EDITOR'S TABLE.

The Commander-in-chief of the Southern frontier of Mendoza has presented to Government a document which ought to be printed in letters of brass, stating that unless a supply of women are sent to Fort Rafael he cannot put a stop to the desertions which are daily taking place amongst his troops.

The above queer order has set us thinking what kind of warriors the Argentine soldiers must needs be, and how very different they are from the model old Roman Legions. For, if we are to believe that erudite scholar, Frances Webber of Trinity College, Dublin, they managed things differently in these days.

Dates have arrived from that town up to the 23th ult., and the 'Ferro-Carril' of Rosario gives the following account of a judicial murder which took place:—It seems that an unfortunate man had been sentenced to death, and whilst proceeding to the place of execution, surrounded by the firing party, and the George Selwyns of that town, Sr. Correa applied to the officer in charge, requesting the execution to be delayed for a few moments, in order that the pardon of the Governor might be obtained.

The marriage mentioned in another column was one of the most interesting ceremonies which have lately occurred in our city. The handsome and accomplished bride was the daughter of one of our most respected Scotch residents, James White, Esq., merchant. The bridegroom was a gentleman of high standing in commercial circles.

The La Plata leaves to-day for Montevideo and Liverpool, taking our hale of ginned cotton to Messrs. Stutterhoff and Sons of the latter town. The Uruguay will probably arrive in a few days from Montevideo.

The half-yearly meeting of the British Clerks' Association is called for Tuesday, 8th inst. We advise all the English clerks to join this respectable and provident society, whose dividends are better than those even of the B. Plate Bank.

We have no later news from Montevideo than the contradiction we published in Wednesday's paper of the imaginary victory gained by Flores. Perhaps we shall hear something to-day.

Doubtless at 4:38 seem to confirm our anticipations of their reaching 500 soon. Mr. Rom ought to publish a new table, leaving room for the patacon to reach 62, i.e., 10:00.

We do not now publish any Bolsa report, as one of the editors, Mr. E. T. Mullahi, is absent on business in the country.

We have received the first number of a lady's illustrated paper, called 'La Epoca'; it is adorned with some models for embroidery.

The 'Revista de Buenos Ayres,' will be ready in a few days.

NECESSARY PRECAUTIONS.

In consequence of the barefaced fraud committed on several justices of the peace, by some unprincipled scoundrel, who held to the maxim of 'all being fair in love, war, and elections,' the Government has passed the following resolution, to prevent a repetition of a similar forgery: there is no use in mincing the word:—

'To the President of the Bank of the Province.

'The Government having just learned, with the greatest displeasure, that the signature of the Minister has been forged in a fictitious document, passed to various justices of the peace. And as the dexterity displayed in this case may be employed for some other ends, the Government has resolved that all drafts drawn by this Government will be presented by the treasurer, Don Emilio G. Rosenli, or by the first officer of the Treasury, Don Miguel Luca, and shall be only paid to either of them.

'The orders upon the fund of the Western Railway shall be payable to the President of the Commission, Don Mariano Helido, or to the person authorised by him to recover them.'
