POST-OFFICE RETURNS 1860.

There is no more infallible index of the progress of a country than its post-office returns.

CAMP REFORM.

The present state of the camps of Buenos Ayres is such, that if the Governor or the Ministers, or the Justices of the Peace or the Alcaldes do not at once adopt measures, Mexico in its worst days will be outdone by Buenos Ayres.

In 1859 the letters and newspapers received in B. Ayres have been more than doubled.

The postal returns of B. Ayres were $25,912, and in 1860 this increased to $40,185.

The most wonderful item in newspapers in 1860 the number despatched hence was only 18,640, or one-quarter the present circulation.

The postal returns of B. Ayres may be almost taken for those of the whole Argentine Republic.

Formerly any native passing from one partido to another was required to have a passport, to escape arrest.

EDITORIAL TABLE.

Dr. Lavall's answer, to the President of the Provincial Chambers, could not be more explicit.

It appears, according to what our colleague, 'El Pueblo,' says, that there is a sort of Ministerial crisis in the Provincial Government.

The province of Buenos Ayres is going headlong to the devil, and we can prove it.

Salto have been twice lost, but we believe they contained nothing of great importance.

Mr. Posadas has introduced many striking reforms into the Postal administration.

It is fashionable in this city to talk of the lamentable state of the provinces.

We raise our voice now in the vain hope that natives themselves will see the urgent necessity for reforming the law.

Full well we know the difficulties attending a thorough camp reform.
