Sympathy with Peru.

Great Meeting at the Retiro.

The largest assemblage seen for many years in B. Ayres, except at the May festivals, was that of Sunday, convened by the Club Pucelo, as a manifestation in favour of Peru in the actual question with Spain.

The hour appointed was noon, but when we arrived there were hardly 400 persons in the Plaza Retiro, standing in knots about the statue of General San Martin.

At one o'clock General Yriarte and other heroes of the Independence arrived on the ground, but were not saluted with a single 'viva.'

It seemed that the proceedings of the meeting had not been clearly arranged, only one member of the Club Pucelo figuring on the platform, and the President of that body (Sr. Gutierrez) not attending.

General Yriarte, having taken off his hat, opened the affair by saluting the statue of General San Martin, in the name of Argentines and of all South American republicans.

Don Alvaro Barros, an old gentleman who had held some civic post under the first Republican Government, reminded the audience of the efforts made by their forefathers for liberty.

General Tomas Guido said—You all know, fellow-citizens, for what purpose we are assembled. The task which Argentines labored to achieve 50 years ago is not yet completed.

three Republics. From the Plata to Rio Bamba, from the Cordillera to the Andes, the old regime was extirpated, and our lungs breathed the vigorous and healthy air of liberty (cheers.)

Sor. Bilbao said: Citizens! know ye what is imperilled by the barbarous aggression of Spain? It is not merely a city or people, but an idea—the idea of Liberty and Republicanism.

The speaker, on concluding, was embraced by General Yriarte. D. Hector Varela said: The piratical act of a Spanish Commander has filled us with indignation, and we are even threatened with a repetition of the struggle for Liberty, which our heroic forefathers waged against Spain.

At the close, a very old negro got on the platform and embraced Sor. Varela earnestly, which caused much merriment through the crowd, the polished orator taking it in good part, and some one sarcastically exclaiming—'Viva la republica!'

The committee seemed anxious to break up the meeting at this stage, but repeated cries for 'Chassising,' and 'Mancilla' caused a slight confusion of councils, during which Sor. Varela came forward and insisted on a hearing for Dr. Chassising, editor of the 'Pucelo' and first promoter of the meeting.

Don Alvaro Barros, an old gentleman who had held some civic post under the first Republican Government, reminded the audience of the efforts made by their forefathers for liberty.

General Yriarte, having taken off his hat, opened the affair by saluting the statue of General San Martin, in the name of Argentines and of all South American republicans.

Dr. Chassising said: Citizens! you have just been told that an idea is at stake, and that idea, republicanism. This is most true. Europe has banned democracy, and the men of that school come here for refuge.

too, in Buenos Ayres, we have many outcasts from their country, who will unite their efforts to ours, in the glorious cause of aiding a sister republic, which has been assailed by a pirate. Countrymen! the hour has arrived for action. Let us not merely limit our sympathy to public demonstrations and grand speeches. We are bound to stand by Peru, and we must urge the Government and Congress in this sense.

Capt. Mancilla said: The cause of republicanism is endangered, and with it the dearest prerogatives of our human condition. Republic means perfection, for Reason has invented no form of Government so equitable, and history records the most brilliant exploits under popular sovereignty.

Here the speaker apologized for not being better prepared with his speech, and was warmly embraced by General Yriarte and Guido.

A person calling himself a Spaniard (name unknown) declared himself a Democrat, and hoped the Republicans would allow him to fraternize, as all upright Spaniards detested the tyrannical measures of the Madrid Cabinet, and regarded Pinzon as a pirate (cheers and hisses).

A nervous looking young man named Rodriguez, from the Custom-house returned to remind the meeting that the only great man of Argentine Independence was Moreno (murmurs). No one could well understand the drift of this speech, and as the orator were becoming rather tiresome with dry repetitions, the meeting moved off by slipping 'to the Plaza.'

When the crowd turned down Calle Florida, there were close upon 5,000 persons in the long file of well-dressed citizens. Several carriages full of ladies were waiting at the corner of the Retiro, and the sounds of martial music drew all the occupants of the houses to the doors and windows, while an ensign carried the Argentine flag at the head of the procession.

We understand that a part of the procession came down calle San Martin, and stopped at the house of the President, who came out and told them they were fine fellows, the Peruvians were fine fellows, and so were the Chileans all, 'honorable men,' or some thing to that effect, but the bulk of the meeting knew nothing of this episode, following calle Florida the whole way.

Impressions in a Balloon.

From the moment of quitting the earth until arriving at the greatest possible height in space which man can reach, one passes (says M. Dupins Delcourt) through a series of new sensations. The most agreeable instant, undoubtedly, is that when we first leave the earth. In the commencement of the ascent, until reaching about 1000 yards, the aerial voyager experiences a delightful flow of spirits, and one feels as in a pleasant dream, awayed hither and thither by the zephyrs. With this sentiment is mixed an admiration for the lovely picture unfolded to us by Nature. As the horizon extends, the rivers show themselves in a hundred windings, the cities and hamlets are seen as in groups, we can count the roads and highways uniting them with each other, and the whole panorama is highly interesting.

The ascent of the balloon impels us to a height of 1000 or 1200 yards; and with a more intense cold we feel a humming in the ears. At 2000 yards we can make ourselves heard only with a great effort, the medium of sound (density of air) having already considerably diminished. The expansion of hydrogen gas, contained in the balloon, which began on our leaving earth, increases so rapidly, that it is sometimes necessary to turn the valve and allow it greater escape.

At 4,000 yards high the cold becomes excessive, the surface of the earth confused, the highways look like threads, the rivers mere streamlets, the sky is serene and generally deep blue. Reaching 6,000 yards we see only large masses, and if a cannon shot be fired below, the vaults of heaven quake and the balloon vibrates.

Ten thousand yards seems the greatest height to which man can ascend, and here the isolation is complete, but we cannot long remain here, for the cold is terrific, and a general uneasiness is felt in every part of the body. The voice can no longer be heard, except with extreme difficulty; and small animals die at this degree of elevation.

The loss of gas, or sometimes its condensation by cold, causes the balloon to descend very rapidly, the cold becomes less intense, and the earth, which just now seemed but a grayish mass, unfolds itself anew, with its various productions. Everything appears to spring up and assume life on its surface. The trees seem budding plants, and the nearer we approach the more each undefined mass, as it were, opens out and reveals towns, fields and forests.

According to our colleague, the 'Ferro Carril' of Rosario, things are in a bad way in this province.

The Government, it is said, has declared the greatest hostility against three very influential men in the province named Lobo, Augier, and Moreno, who are declared 'masho- queros' by the authorities. But the Government of this province, it appears, has exiled 800 Catamarcanians, and has taken some 70,000 head of horned cattle from their owners, without paying them one farthing.

Besides this, our colleague's correspondent charges the Government with shooting a man, named Puchetu without any trial whatever, and four hours after his arrest. We regret to say that upon the same authority we learn that this Government has executed 40 men, burnt down houses, and positively robbed the public treasury.

spire, headed by Moreno, Augier, and Recalde, and a man named Raimundo Castro, has been arrested, and is expected to be shot hourly. Commander Cordova, who is the most influential officer in the province, has had a split with the Government, and the Catamarcanians believe a revolution is imminent. It is most afflictive to learn the foregoing particulars, respecting a province, which, if properly governed, would be the richest in the Republic. Catamarca cotton ranks higher than even United States Sea Island, and yet notwithstanding the enormous value of such cotton, not one pound is produced.

The departure of the three Ministers on Sunday evening, for Montevideo, took all the town by surprise. If Srta. Lamas and Elizalde had gone down by themselves on board any of our river steamers, people would not have wondered so much, but when it was known that the Shell-drake was getting up steam, and Mr. Thornton, the British Minister, was to accompany their Excellencies, the quidnuncs were on the tip-toe of excitement. We hope the distinguished trio will succeed in arranging the Oriental Brazilian question, as things are beginning to look very cloudy on the other side.

Yesterday it rained all day long in town, and we have not heard from the camp; but from the appearance of the weather, we think it must have rained from here to the Chincha Islands. A German-sheepfarmer, resident at San Borombon, has bought a splendid estancia in Santa Fe, the other side of the Caracaras, 17 leagues from Rosario, at the rate of 4000 Bolivian dollars per square league. The land has a fine monte on it, and is meared and bounded. He says that people who go down to Tandil, and pay 200,000 dollars, where they are constantly in danger of the Indians, instead of buying land in Santa Fe at 40,000 dollars, will yet find out their mistake. Three leagues further out, two Englishmen have also recently bought an estancia, and driven their sheep from Buenos Ayres on to the land. Four leagues this side of the German's estancia, an Irishman has purchased some four square leagues of land. This is what the Argentine Central Railway is doing for the province!

Our evening colleague, the 'Pucelo,' has got an 'absent friend' in San Nicolas, who has commenced a series of letters, entitled 'Horas en San Nicolas.' This plagiarist correspondent states that he was half starved on board the Paven on his way up, and owing to the diminutive size of the blankets, almost froze to death. Other people, who have travelled on board this favourite steamer, however, give a very different account of the accommodation on board, and we ourselves, who have more than once made a trip on board the Paven, most willingly testify not only to the superior cuisine and comfortable beds, but also to the courteous conduct of the commander of the steamer, Captain Price.

It appears that the negotiations going on between Brazil and the Oriental Government have suddenly terminated. No reason is alleged for this abrupt conclusion, but the Brazilian Minister forthwith went on board a Brazilian man-of-war in the harbour. Our readers will be pleased to learn that the hint we threw out, respecting the establishment of an English theatre, has been productive of good effect. Several parties have already caught up the idea, and soon we hope to publish, in the 'Standard,' that on such a night will be given 'The Stoops to Conquer,' or the 'Lady of Lyons,' to conclude with the popular farce of 'Box and Cox,' &c. We promise our enterprising friends, that if they act their parts well, we will secure for them a full house twice a week.

A distinguished English merchant, we heard, has received a 'tercio' of the new yerba, about which there was so much talk previous to the Pinzon question. Every one is invited to call and see it; but we have not been informed whether samples are given or not. Novel as is this yerba in our market, still more novel is it to see an English merchant selected to introduce it on the market. We have some excellent samples of Jameson's five year old whiskey at our office, but from private motives of our own, we refrain from inviting the public to inspect it.

The Triton and Fulminante, both war vessels, arrived in port on Saturday, from Montevideo.

The Provincial Government has paid up the first call on the 250 shares of the Central Railway which it subscribed for. The call amounted to the trifling of 88,410 dols. Notwithstanding the rain, there was a tremendous conflagration at the bank and four millions burnt, we believe that, like the last, the 'quemazon' was strictly private. Mr. Zamudio ought to burn the money in the patio, where the public could see for themselves the paper money going to blazes.

Mr. Sunblad, a distinguished foreigner, married into one of the oldest families in town, died on Saturday. Messrs. Drabble Brothers have presented the Correntine Government with two cotton gins. This leading English house has always displayed the most praiseworthy interest in cotton-planting, and has set a good example to all the other English houses in town. We hope Mr. Blanco, of Mendoza, who is at present in this city trying to get up a cotton-planting society, will meet with support from our English houses; they but study their own interest in promoting this industry. The day we export fifty thousand bales of cotton, our English merchants may double their home orders.

Compas, the great monetary correspondent of the 'Nacion Argentina,' has published his last article. His project is, to get large quantities of specie from Europe and retain it here. We agree with this tedious correspondent, but we are anxious to know how we can keep the specie here when we spend more than we earn. M. Riestra's project is the most sensible yet produced; we hope to see it carried, but Article 28 must be passed.

Collisions near Montevideo.

We have been informed that the Argentine steamer Corrientes, coming to this port from Buenos Ayres, met a vessel at 11.20 p.m. without any lights. When the Corrientes saw her, she was at such a short distance, that they had no time but to put the helm a starboard, and run into the prow of the N.E., the wind being fresh a head, and running 5 1/2 knots an hour. The steamer suffered the collision between the mainmast and cargo port, with the following injuries:—Cordage and stays of the mainmast broken, the cranes wrenched, and a boat knocked to pieces, the awning raised, ladies' and engineers' cabin and pantry, with a great deal of the glass and earthen-ware they contained, damaged, mainmast and lateen gib cut, and in general, great damage to the rigging.

The Swedish brig Walkyrian, and English ship Don Diego, which left Montevideo on the 2nd inst. the first for Liverpool, and the second for New York, laden with produce, came foul of each other at 11 p.m., same night. The Swede lost her bowsprit, and suffered other injuries, which obliged her to put back to port for repairs. The Don Diego (this is the iron vessel which made so rapid a trip from Liverpool) was also injured, but has not returned—'Telegrafo Maritimo.'

Performance of Atar-Gull.

On Saturday evening at the invitation of Capt. Mancilla we attended his Benefit at the Victoria Theatre. The house was crowded, the President and his family being present, and we remarked a good many English and other foreigners. The drama went off very well, the interest of the plot being sustained throughout, and the actors doing full justice to the various brilliant passages of the play. The author's political adversaries condemn Atar-Gull: a horribly stupid and also charge him with borrowing from Eugene Sue, but these assertions must destroy each other, and although we do not go so far as the 'Tribuna' in our admiration, the tragedy seems to us really well written and full of dramatic effect.

The first act is the weakest, the dialogue being somewhat tedious. In the 2d and 3rd, the incidents are well arranged, but the apostrophe of the ugly old negro in love with the heroine is too sublime, elevating Samba to the level of a Platonic philosopher. The 'denouement' of Atar-Gull's conspiracy is very fine, except that we doubt the fact of the slaves committing suicide merely to do him a favor. In Act IV, we regret that the romance of implacable revenge has destroyed the moral, for the treacherous negro poisons his master, while the latter leaves him all his fortune.

Atar-Gull is a series of fine tableaux, in which the brilliancy of coloring destroys the effect of light and shade. It is a poetic narration in which the redundancy of metaphor sometimes clogs the argument, but the poetry of sentiment and dramatic grouping of characters and events, carry us through, and we are entertained with the recital; however displaced by the moral. Fien-dish crime is made to triumph over repentant virtue, and the most diabolical revenge is shown to be merely a natural impulse in the hearts of that race which we are asked to place on a level with

The whites. Señor Mansilla has decidedly proved his ability as a dramatist...

The enthusiasm of the audience was something unusual in Buenos Ayres. After the third act, the author was twice called out for popular ovation...

Citizens! As an American and an Argentine, I join with all my heart in the generous sympathies manifested by the people of Buenos Ayres for a sister republic...

Important for the Engineer

The following were the bids sent in to the Minister of War, for the repairing of the steamer Menay:—

Mr. Hedge, of the Boca, 2000 patacones for mending her hull; 4000 patacones to repair boilers; 1600 patacones for machinery, and 40 patacones for each plate. Time, 3 months.

Mr. Marshall, Barracas, 1200 ounces for all repairs. Time, six months.

Messrs. Herg and Co., Paseo Julio, 60,000 dols mje, to repair hull; 38,000 dols mje, for boilers; and 75 dols mje, per foot for plates. Time, 4 months.

Mr. Cardozo, 47,000 dols mje, to repair hull; 45,000 dols mje for repairing the boilers; and 69 dols mje, per foot for plates. Time, 90 days.

Messrs. Sherman and Co., 80,000 dols mje, for repairing hull; 42,000 dols mje, and 69 dols mje, per foot for plates. Time, 90 days.

As the bid of Messrs. Sherman and Co. is the lowest, we believe it will be accepted.

LOCAL EVENTS

Salute.—We read that the salute fired yesterday at the meeting was not for the meeting at all, but for the equilateral triangle of diplomacy embarked for Montevideo to settle Sr. Saravia who seems anxious to imitate Pinzou.

Wonderful Turnip.—The 'National' mentions a zapallo found in the Catal' mas convent garden, with a star in the middle. As our colleague evidently is at a loss to know 'what he will do with it' we recommend him to hang it on his breast for a decoration.

Assassination.—A poor man has been found murdered in San Fernando, the corpse showing ten stabs: no one arrested.

Montevideo.—There is little of importance from the sister city. Owing to press of matter we hold over the news till to-morrow.

El Pueblo.—Don Francisco Lopez Torres has joined Dr. Chassaing in the editorship of this paper.

Robbery.—On Thursday evening a man was assaulted and robbed of his watch at the corner of Bolivar and Belgrano; he ran up to the 'sereno' for assistance, but the latter said it was none of his business.

SAVINGS BANK BANK MAU & CO. No. 103 calle de Cangallo. BUENOS-AYRES.

The immense advantages of Accounts Current are now so generally felt, and appreciated in the two great emporiums of the River Plate—Montevideo & Buenos Ayres—that there are very few Merchants who fail to keep one at the Bank in which they place the most confidence.

The Bank of Mau & Co. in Montevideo has already provided for the working class in that city, a safe & profitable depositary for their savings.

These advantages have not hitherto been enjoyed in this city by an immense number of Clerks, artisans, working-men & servants of all classes & conditions, who are equally interested in putting their savings out at interest, thus providing themselves with a reserve fund in case of need, sickness or old age.
