THURSDAY, JUNE 10, 1864.

MUNICIPAL REFORM.

If there is any one abuse in the River Plate which cries to Heaven for reformation it is the Municipal squandering which is going on in this city.

Having now for many years experienced the utter incompetency of our Municipal Board, and being most thoroughly convinced that there is not the slightest improvement to be expected from this sleepy corporation, we think it high time to ask, when may we expect municipal reform?

The paper currency is now a chronic evil of the country; it inevitably makes us all poorer, but the depreciation of the paper dollar will not break a man's neck, or necessitate the use of the mack-pump.

Last evening the diligence to Barracas was all but upset on the hill immediately preceding Calle Buen Orden; the horses and ruts on that hill would, if widened a little, be able to bury all the principal fathers of Buenos Ayres.

It is fashionable to talk of the progress of Buenos Ayres, and call it the Athens of South America, but the Attic soil must have been a most monstrously muddy hole if any city in that classic quarter resembled the Buenos Ayres of the present day.

Arrogating to themselves the right of improving the streets in a cleanly manner, they have been using the power to repair, and the ruts and holes of getting our streets broken, forcing us to get our feet to attend to the sanitary condition of the place, we are, all of us obliged to drink river water, undergoing a sort of slow poison more fatal than cholera.

Sympathy for Barracas

In consequence of the scandalous attempt of Admiral Muñiz to seize the very valuable Argentine possession, known as Barracas, a rather influential meeting was convened for yesterday evening, at the 'Mad and Fuddle' Arms, in Calle Buen Orden.

Mr. Bilbao's next came forward, and with tears in his eyes, and mud on his boots, stated that he had missed the coach, and had been obliged to walk up. Barracas is in danger (quoth the orator), and the rotten municipal members of the Board of Town Council, who have dared to threaten the independence of the Barracenses, are our enemies.

Mr. Bridge's next came forward, and stated that the aggressions of Admiral Muñiz had caused him the most serious injury in his business; this ruffian contrary to the rotten municipalities had actually taken possession of a very important locality in front of his premises, and had tentatively retained hold of it notwithstanding his most continued reclamations.

Mr. Bridge, who spoke in the most restrained terms, begged that the meeting would appoint a committee to wait upon the English consuls to consult with them as to the best method to eject the practical Admiral Muñiz.

Mr. Dono Ash, the only Englishman present, believed that it would cost but little to eject the ruffian Muñiz, if clear instructions were given; a small gunboat to the Riachuelo would easily sweep the Calle Larga, and the indegent Britisher would tell the enlightened Barracenses that the rotten municipalities were the cause of all, and although, by the exercise of a good right, he was empowered to make Standard speech and shovel the street might be cleaned still, as long as those rotten dignitaries ruled in Barracas, the residents were always open to similar indignities; he would urge, therefore, the following resolution (which was subsequently seconded by Mr. Cudlemaker): That it is expedient the people of Barracas be emancipated from the thralldom of all rotten Municipalities, and that a subscription of bronos and shovels be immediately made for the purpose of properly combating the scandalous aggressions of Admiral Muñiz. Carried unanimously.

CHARGES AGAINST PERU

The Spanish Envoy, Mazarredo, goes on to explain the motives which have obliged Spain to seize the Chinchica Islands.

Although the tribunals admitted the injustice of the seizure of our trader, Maria Julia, the Peruvian Government refused compensation, stating that Mr. Tavora's pretensions could not be admitted. The Grand Turk never treated the envoys of the Barbary States with such sovereign contempt as our Minister experienced in Lima.

D. Manuel Saleado, a politician and capitalist of Lima, had engaged sixty Basque families in Spain, in 1839, to come out and cultivate cotton on his farm at Talambo. These poor people were scandalously taken in and robbed of all they had; so grievous were their labours imposed on them, that 20 per cent. of the healthy and robust crew died.

It is notorious that D. Manuel Saleado looked on at the work of blood from the balcony of his house, with his steward, Carmen Valdes, headed the assassins and rewarded them by direction of his master, who, moreover, maintained them in his house for several days afterwards. It is proved that the wounded Basques were kept prisoners by the assassins for 17 days, until August 21st. It is proved that a quart of an hour before the butchery the Governor of Chetiv breakfasted with Saleado, and on leaving the house met the band of murderers but did not attempt to stop them.

When the Sub-prosecutor, Governor and Criminal Judge, went to the farm on the 21st of August, they found the armed assassins still there.

The case was so prolonged that justice has never been executed, and our Consul had to protest in Lima, but the criminals will never be punished. Soon afterwards a general attack was made on all the Spaniards in Peru. Ramon Prieto in Junin, Juan Uchayo in Pallas, Hannon Contador in Chiclayo, Manuel Barro in Moyobamba, Lorenzo Apudima in Abasco; in a word, there has hardly a department where Spaniards have not been outraged with the connivance of the authorities.

Such are the outrages which have induced Spain to take active measures to cause her flag and citizens to be respected. Meantime Spain is ready to recognize the independence of Peru and of all other S. American nations; she has no thirst for conquest; as plain from her conduct respecting Mexico. Her respect for Domingo it must be remembered the people of that island had gone round Europe begging of the various powers to assume the Government and free them from anarchy.

Lima, April 12th-1864. Enchufe de Saldany y Mazarredo. Such is the case of Spain, and if these statements be true, there is little room for sympathy with Peru. The Cabinet of Lima has written a reply, we do not attempt to dispute the charges. The English note, the document of Mazarredo was supposed to long.

EDITORS' TABLE.

The Liverpool steamer Paraguay is due, having sailed on the 8th ult. The La Plata was to follow on June 1st. We see, by advertisement in the 'Fremmen's Journal,' that the brig Raymond, of Dublin, has given up trading with Buenos Ayres, and is now put on the New York route.

The committee of new lines of steamers, from Palmona to Cay Bay and Port Natal (South Africa), making the voyage in 35 and 42 days.

The Literary Society of Buenos Ayres will shortly be inaugurated, under the auspices of the distinguished biographer of Belgrano, President Mitre. It is rumored that the society will have its special organ in the press.

We are glad to learn that the editor of the 'River Plate Magazine,' and the able French painter, M. Palliere, have been invited to become members.

Respecting the Peruvian question, we have two very contradictory indications of the intentions of Spain.

The committee of Colon Theatre inform us they were not opposed to giving that public building for the Peruvian meeting, but refused to treat with Sr. Mansilla; on the requisition of Dr. Lopez it was cooled. There is no ground rent payable for the theatre; the original contract stipulated nine doubloons per month, but this was afterwards exchanged for two boxes allotted by the committee to Government. The site has, therefore, become the property of the shareholders and the second contract can never be revived.

The papers from Montevideo bring no news of importance. We learn that the deputation, composed of Messrs. Thurston, Elizalde, Lamas, Herrera, and Castro, was expected to return to the capital on Friday (to-morrow). The full terms of conciliation had been agreed on by these gentlemen, in a conference held in Port Aguirre, and peace may be regarded as 'a fait accompli.'

By decree, June 14th, Governor Savoyra prolongs the term for enrolment of National Guards till the 31st July. The motive alleged is, that several natives in the camp have desired to remove from their own districts, by the late awful drought.

General Mitre's reply to the meeting on Sunday was very bold. He said, that he saluted the Argentine and other American flags which had floated gloriously over the continent; he said that the puff of civilization would raise them even nearer to the stars than Mr. Wells has done (pointing to the balloon, then over the outer roads). The populace cheered, without exactly knowing why.

We regret to report two serious accidents on the Northern Railway. One occurred at the signal near Belgrano, attempted to cross the line as the train came up, and missing his foot, was cut in two, expiring a few minutes after. The other, he paid dearly for his neglect in not taking his post in time. On Monday the engine-driver slipped under the train, and would have been killed had he not been forcibly pulled out by a luggage-wagon passing over one of his legs, smashing it. The limb was skilfully amputated by Dr. Heim, in the British Hospital, and we are happy to announce the patient is out of danger.

INTERESTING NEWS FROM THE UNITED STATES.

The Confederates have withdrawn from Fort Pillow, in a northerly direction. General Sherman's account of the capture of Pillow states that 300 coloured troops were murdered by the Confederates. President Lincoln has made a speech at Baltimore, stating that if the League Government, the murdering negroes at Fort Pillow were confirmed he should retaliate; but he asked if it would be right to take the lives of individuals or only one man; therefore would be necessary to determine hereafter upon the form of retaliation. It is reported that Hardie's ships left the Cape, and that General Grant has been relieved from his command in the army of the Potomac, and ordered to report to Lincoln.

The Government has stopped the transmission of news from Virginia. It is supposed that Lee or Grant has commenced moving. Deere's report Longstreet to be moving down to Savannah Valley, and that Lee's army has received ten days' rations for the month of June. General Grant has left for the front, and Burnside has gone to Fort Monroe. Further Lee River advices confirm the news of the Union defeat, but state that the news was renewed the following day, when the Confederates were routed with considerable loss. The Confederates General Morton, Pearson, and the remainder of the force, has countermanded the order to retreat to Alexandria. The Federal force which had advanced to within 80 miles of the city has been ordered to return. While on its way down the Confederates attacked the fleet but were repulsed with heavy loss. The Confederates were repulsed on the 17th inst. made an attack on Plymouth, North Carolina. Advices to the 18th report that a Confederate raid had sunk three Federal gunboats at Plymouth. Large numbers of Federal troops are returning from the Royal to Fort Monroe. Some accounts state that General Forrest is moving into Mississippi, others that he is marching towards Memphis. Guerrillas have been the greater part of Huck Kentucky. The Governors of Wisconsin, Illinois, Ohio, and Indiana are in Washington, urging President Lincoln to call out two hundred thousand six months' volunteers.

The Governor of New York has tendered the service of the State Militia for the defence of the forts around New York and the frontier. The Federals have evacuated Florida. Another Federal transport has been sunk by torpedoes in St. John's, Florida. The governor of New York has urged the Legislature to reconsider its resolution to pay the interest of the state debt in currency. Advices from New Orleans to the 16th inst. confirm General Banks' defeat near Shreveport, but do not mention his reported victory on the following day. Further advices from Plymouth confirm the report of the sinking of three Federal gunboats. The Confederate ram has now possession of the river below Plymouth, cutting off communication with the garrison of that place. The garrison is well provisioned, and it is supposed can hold the position. Several gunboats have left Fort Monroe for Plymouth to assist the Federals.

THE WAR IN NEW ZEALAND.

The following telegram, addressed to the Secretary of State for War, was received early this morning from Her Majesty's Consul at Alexandria: 'The following despatch has this day been received from Lieutenant-General Cameron, Chief of the Head quarters, 'Te Avenuta Feb. 25: "A force, under command of Lieutenant-General Cameron, made a flank march on the night of the 20th and 21st of February, by which the whole of the native stronghold constructed with immense labour to oppose his advance, were successfully burned; they were immediately evacuated by the natives who fell back on a strong position in front of Rangiahua, their principal source of supply. On the 22d General Cameron attacked this position, which was most gallantly assaulted and carried by the 50th Regiment.

We are now in possession of the full country between the Waikato and Waikato rivers, as far as Rangiahua, from which the natives have retired. There were three officers severely wounded—viz. Lieutenant Colonel Nicolson, Colonel DeFreese Fort; Lieutenant Pagan, 60th Regiment; and Ensign Downton, 50th Regiment; and four men killed and 21 wounded.'

WOOL MARKET.

New York, April 23d, 1864. Since the issue of my last circular there has been an active trade in all kinds of merchandise, and generally at higher prices. The sudden rise in gold on the 12th to 14th inst. caused importers to ask more for their goods, and some sales were effected to an advance; but, since the decline of gold, again the market is quiet, and there is now no animated demand for goods. The Government issues gold certificates for about two weeks, and sell them below the market rate for gold. It was thought this might relieve the gold market by lessening the competition; but it did not result in having a beneficial effect. A bill has passed the U. S. Senate for regulating transactions in gold and foreign exchange, and may possibly pass the House and become a law. The provisions are so stringent pertaining with the and imprisonment all transgressors, that it will be next to impossible for foreign merchants to transact business with exchange, or scarcely be able to make purchases of gold for the payment of duties. A law like this cannot be carried into effect, and could not have been drawn up by any one possessing a knowledge of business. Congress is still busy preparing a new tax and tariff bill, and very much higher rates it is supposed will be made, so as to produce a large income to the Government.

No decisive or large battles have been fought by either branches of the Army. We have telegraphic news of some severe fighting in Western Louisiana, with the post of General Banks army which at first was unfavorable to the Union troops; but afterwards, being reinforced they became victorious. We have full confirmation of the shocking barbarities and indiscriminate massacre of white and black soldiers by the rebels at Fort Pillow, on the Mississippi river. The garrison was overpowered, and subjected to their capture, and appeals for mercy after throwing away their arms, they were inhumanly butchered. The rebels in Louisiana, on 17th inst. made an attack on Plymouth, North Carolina, but were successfully repulsed. General Lee's army is reported on the move, and a great battle with the army of the Potomac may be close at hand. Some of the Governors of the Western States are at Washington urging the President to call out 200,000 six months' troops to immediate service.

Liverpool Cotton Market

To the Editors of the 'Standard,' Gentlemen, We enclose our weekly report, which may interest you. Our market has been interfered with by the disturbance in the money market, and the advance in the rate of discount to 8 and 9 per cent. This is generally supposed to have more of a political than financial significance, and there is an uneasy feeling that we may at any time find ourselves involved in the Danish dispute. The tone of the country is decidedly worthily, and we are glad that it is mainly due to court influence that Ministers have not taken a more decided tone against the aggressions of Prussia; but, nevertheless, that war may be averted, but very little confidence is felt in the result of anything done from the present experience.

CONGRESS.

The 'National' of the 15th, gives an account of the Session of National Deputies on the 15th. When a man does not know the day of the week in England, it is supposed he did not sleep at home the night before. The error would be 'trifling,' were it not that the 'National' has got the special contract from Congress of reporting its debates properly. The secretary announced yesterday, that the bill respecting the payment of Prussian indemnities was printed; and the House resolved to debate thereon, next day of session (Friday). It was announced that the bill for subscribing to 20th inst. of the Convention, which had passed the Senate, and consequently becomes law. 'The Senate will sit to-day, weather permitting.'
