SUNDAY, JULY 3, 1864.

THE FOURTH OF JULY.

It is in vain that we attempt to disguise our grief at the distressing condition of the once happy United States on this its Eighty-Eighth Birth-Day.

But out of courtesy to our American friends we try to shake off the gloom which the news by the last packet has created, and, still clinging to the hope that better times are in store, we join in the shout of "Long live the United States, the land of Liberty, and the home of the Free."

The unhappy civil war which now, for the last three years, has desolated that country, proves too clearly the frightful consequences which attend the triumph of democratic passion, the decline of political morality.

The rebellion of the South establishes beyond all manner of doubt, the unwieldy debility of democratic power. Democratic zeal and democratic energy have alike proved ineffectual in suffering a rebellion which, we regret to say, seems to be prosecuted more for the purpose of pandering to European jealousy than for the honest assertion of liberty, where despotism was never known.

We would fain shut our eyes to the sequel of the present struggle, but the news by the last packet has dashed from us the last hope we cherished. The dismemberment of the Union seems now inevitable, and with it perishes the vain illusion of Monroe. The world is witness that what the combined powers of Europe never dared to attempt the discussions of republicans themselves have effected. Although true republican must weep over the scene, the impartial philosopher will find it difficult to decide whether humanity is a loser or gainer by the result.

The enemies of America may possibly wish to see the Southern States severed from the Northern. We think the Government begins wrong end. Instead of paying immigrants from Liverpool about, the President will do get them from there there are none read in the editor's pens, has withdrawn

It is to be hoped that passion has at last done its worst, and that men will now listen to reason. The inexorable jealousies of the South have brought mourning into every family in that region. The preposterous refusal of all concessions by the North has razed towns and ruined cities.

Precious to the commencement of this lamentable struggle, the footholds of Europe in America were extremely slender. The possessions of Russia were confined to the frigid zone; British way in Canada was so very precarious that the Home Government almost ceased to have any influence from Labrador to the Pacific.

In fact, from Cape Horn to the Bay of Fundy, republicanism under one shape or form was either actually in existence or in a state of embryo.

But since the memorable battle of Bull's Run what a change has come over every inch of America! Some republics have ceased to exist, and in their ruins either colonial governments or constitutional monarchies have been established.

Verily, the war in the United States has not been a struggle between the North and the South, but a fight between Europe and America, at least if we are to judge by the results.

Americans, ye who still cling to the fixed principles of the immortal Washington, and the Government which he established, receive our sympathies on this sad 4th of July.

his paper money project, simply because the Government opposes it. We cannot say that we approve altogether of such extreme political sensibility; however, Sor Kleista has now thrown the onus on the Government, and if our Provincial Finance Minister allow the session to close without introducing some measure to redeem the currency he will be obliged to resign, in the same manner as his pristic colleague.

The Municipality of Zarate has sent fifty thousand dollars to the Bank, to be set apart for building public schools in that thriving little town. This speaks well for the public mind of Zarate, and reflects the highest credit on our active friend Don Manuel José de la Torre, the president of that body.

We trust that the provincial Government will put another fifty thousand to the above sum, so that a decent building can be erected for so desirable a purpose.

A friend of ours has called to say that he has a square leagus of land adjoining Mr. Fair's estancia in the Banda Oriental, which has a good brick estancia house on it, seven hundred cattle and a few thousand fine sheep.

It was ransomed through the town yesterday that a "capataz" of the Southern Railway had cooperated with one hundred thousand dollars, which he had received at the office to pay the men. We don't know what truth there is in the report.

Argentine boilers, up to the present, Mr. Carulla's son comes out, that we may procure a good steamboat boiler as our friends in Paraguay, but the last one made has proved a failure.

The diligences from the country towns in the South are now so scarce when they get near the Barraca-Bridge, hire bullocks, as the roads are so bad that the horses are no use.

Organization of Public Credit

Just 12 months ago the Argentine Congress, after long and stormy debates sanctioned a law with the above title. Since then the public has waited with anxiety for the National Executive to put in force a measure so imperatively demanded by the private interests of many persons and by the credit itself of the Argentine Government.

By taking to the nation market the Bonds of the Nat. Government, we shall not only give a patent proof of the faithful fulfillment of our promises and the prosperous condition of the country, but moreover create a source of riches for any future emergency in monetary affairs.

In the River Plate interest always ranges so high, as almost to check mercantile transactions. We read in the banking circles that money is worth 12 to 15 per cent per annum.

Miss Jane Young is summoned as witness for the trial of Juan Manuel Lopez, who murdered Mrs. Isabella Young in the district of Quilmes.

Don Isidoro Córdoba, (residence not known) is summoned to give evidence against Fortunio Hernández, charged with the murder of Gerónimo Cayetano, in the district of Vecino, last December.

Manuel Pérez is summoned for the third time to deliver himself up to arrest in the prison of San Nicolás for the charge of murdering Don Teodoro Corvalán. (Date not mentioned).

Agustín Toledo, another fugitive, is petitioned to answer for the murder of Miguel Posadas, (no date), at San Nicolás. He is probably roaming about the camps.

Jose Abonzo is summoned for cattle-stealing at San Nicolás, but he has despaired the first summons he hastily means to attend.

Roman Moreno is cited for stabbing and wounding at San Nicolás. No attendance to first and second summons.

Agustín Gomez is notified that in his absence he has been found guilty of cattle-stealing, along with José Bercego. (Date not mentioned).

There is no news from Tucuman or the other provinces. The Chilean mail has not arrived, and it might be premature to celebrate the recovery of the Islands, as we have no news yet that Peru has made the slightest effort to fight the plucky little Spanish garrison of 1000 men, although the latter are 4000 leagues from home or reinforcements.

The collections for the Córdoba railway continue actively. The new paper, "El Rosario," has not yet come out; it is not wanted, and we hope may prove an abortion. A great Peruvian meeting will take place in the Plaza of Rosario on the 9th inst.
