THURSDAY, JULY 28, 1864.

THE AEGEAN STAGNUS.

In countries where the only remedy for abuses is supposed to be a revolution, of course it is a waste of time to be writing day after day calling for reform. We do hope that the people in this country will not turn a deaf ear to our entreaties for a sweeping judicial reformation—nothing is more wanted in Buenos Ayres, indeed it is a necessity equal in importance to the amelioration of the currency. The administration of justice in Buenos Ayres has become so scandalous, the monstrous delays in every lawsuit, the heinous procrastination in criminal trials are no longer to be termed abuses; they are cured evils which are eating into the vitality of society, and people are becoming so disgusted at the legal bungling procedure going on in the Cabildo that plaintiffs and defendants are now having recourse to the newspapers for redress. In Tuesday's 'Nation Argentina' a scurrilous lampoon is published respecting some lawsuit with Sr. Anclonera, which can be only justified on the plea that the courts will not decide the question.

When Flores started his revolution he tried to justify his conduct by the plea that he could not be perceived means obtain redress in Montevideo. If the legal abuses and evils which are growing up in the rank vegetation of crime are not stopped and cut down, we prophesy that litigants will resort to some more potent way of terminating a lawsuit than lampooning a defendant in the newspapers. Verily it would seem that President Mitre was as ignorant of the abuses going on in our courts as the latest arrived emigrant from Tipperary.

The state of the law courts to-day is such as to suggest the notion that the institutions in this country are framed to protect fraud, rescue the murderer, screen the criminal, and blast and ruin the innocent.

Only the other day an unfortunate Englishman who had been incarcerated for nine months was set at liberty. This unfortunate man shot down a murderous gaucha in self-defence; the judge of the district, the neighbours all were acquainted with the facts of the case, there was no charge whatever against this poor man, and yet he was kept in the lockhouse prison of Buenos Ayres for nine months. What are the judges in this land?—What are the tribunals of the country good for?

A frightful attempt at murder was committed three weeks ago in the patio of the Villa Lujan, the victim was cut and wounded and his clothes stolen; the criminal was, thanks to the praiseworthy conduct of the judge of the Villa Lujan, at once arrested, the wounded man's clothes were found hid in the villan's ranch. Where is that prisoner now? Has he been tried in Lujan? Convicted in Lujan? Sentenced in Lujan? NO. But he is sent in to the public prison in Buenos Ayres, three probably to remain waiting his trial, unless some indignant but honest-minded man resorts to the plan of Mr. Anclonera's adversary, and implores the judge, the court, and the laws of the country where such outrageous criminal procedure exists.

Viewing these judicial abuses in the proper light, we again call upon some of our public men to take the matter up. We believe that if the Government would commission Dr. Quintana, who was a disciple of the famous tel Acevedo, to frame a proper criminal code of procedure; if this talented young man would introduce many useful reforms. Let us begin by reforming our criminal courts, and conferring the most summary jurisdiction on the judges. The Cabildo at this moment full of criminals who if Justice had her due, should have been long since shot or hanged. When we simplify the criminal process, then let us begin with the civil, but let us at all events do something, because the newspapers get all filled with such offensive publications as that which we already referred to. Of one thing there cannot be the least doubt, if we do not reform the abuses in the Cabildo, they will go on increasing until the only hope of reformation will be a la Flores.

EXPOSURE TABLE. The Brazilian steamer 'Marques de Olinda,' will leave Buenos Ayres for Curumbati only next week. A mysterious affair enough is the trunk which the police found on the Western Railway. No guano can be found, and it is feared that there is some foul play at the bottom of it.

One of our colleagues takes great exception to the new sign-board of a go-ahead butcher in one of our back streets in town has recently put up 'Congress' butchery. Our colleague says very properly that if such scandalous sign-boards are allowed to be put up foreigners will begin to have novel ideas both of our Congressmen and our butchers. None of the Senators or Deputies are butchers; they have no connection whatever with such a business. Our colleague is getting them skinned; there is nothing in it.

We wonder who is the author of the paper money project in Tuesday's 'Tribuna,' or if he really thinks any business man in town has time to read through such a frightfully lengthy document. He signs himself 'El Politicastro.' Whatever this means we cannot even guess. The scheme may be good enough in itself, but it is so frightfully long that no one has read it. Mr. Politicastro proposes that assignats for land be issued in change for the money, etc. etc. The whole affair is moonshine.

It is a surprising fact that no matter how important the topic, or beneficial the project, they die out remarkably quickly in Buenos Ayres. We all recollect the noise General Paunero's Rio Colorado project created—how sound and practical it was regarded—and yet, in a few weeks the whole thing is forgotten, and the public mind occupied with the narrow escape of the small boy on the parade—was forget the Indians, the Colorado, and we believe we may say even the General himself. A correspondence published in Tuesday's 'Tribuna' has attracted our attention to the matter. The writer knows all the Generals of the day, is privately acquainted with all the leading Indians on our frontier from San Luis to Bahis Blanca, and courageously enough asserts that Paunero's scheme is the best and safest ever introduced; that the Indians once driven behind the Plameras and Colorado would secure the immense pampas of Buenos Ayres from danger of invasion. What has Congress done with this project? We believe there is something in it, simply because the Senators and deputies seem to snub it.

Respecting Mr. Wheelwright's remarks in Rosario, the story goes that the Rosario's half killed the poor gentleman with kindness. Mr. Perkins made a powerful speech, and as for Mr. Frizze, his English speech is the talk not only of Rosario, but of Buenos Ayres; one would have supposed that his real name was Frizze, and that he came from Connecticut. He spoke with a fluency and a grammatical correctness which induced many strangers who happened to be present at the 'lunch' to believe that he was nearly connected with the well known Lindley Murray, and as these ruffians not only kill cows, but sheep. Our colleague very properly asks what has become of Don Segundo Garcia, the Judge, and why does he not take measures to put a stop to this? We happen to know this gentleman, and we feel a pleasure in certifying to his upright conduct as judge, but not considerable energy as a police magistrate.

The Calvete debate in Congress is the absorbing topic in town. Senator Frizze made a noble, stirring speech, and suggested the House by asking the Senators what would the people in London say if they heard of this matter. This was a power. The Minister, however, stepped in and stated that President Mitre had determined to chastise Major Calvete.

Obituary notices in the 'National' are not to be read, owing to a nefarious trick played the other day. We hear that, to prevent the recurrence of such an unpleasant joke, the talented editor has made a new rule whereby no funeral invitations shall be published unless the party in person delivers said notice at the office of the 'Imprenta.' There was no steamer up from Montevideo yesterday, but town was full of all sorts of rumors respecting the recent journey of President Aguirre.

The 'Pavon,' notwithstanding the fog, came in true to her time. Things in Rosario are very quiet. The new American Hotel has been set opened. The streets are crowded with newly arrived Englishmen, who are looking for camp and sheep.

Yesterday we sent to the Royal Dublin Society the two back bones of the Parana whales, which we had on exhibition at this office. They will no doubt be regarded as great curiosities in our native city.

Governor Saavedra has not gone to the camp after all, and we hear that the reason why Sr. Riestra signed the decrees last week was, that some near relatives of M. Saavedra were interested in the matter, and therefore His Excellency could not be induced to act. Such supreme official delicacy can only be appreciated by such a public as that of Buenos Ayres. It may be right, but it seems to us very prudish.

The traction engine, 'El Dukey,' is being repaired up at Mr. Gosnar's barracks, and will shortly be set a-going. A fire occurred in Calle Defensa in front of the popular and well assorted grocery store of Messrs. Uria & Uria. It was extinguished immediately, thanks to the exertions of the neighbors. Any of our readers who can supply us with articles for the Paris exhibition we hope will do so, as we are anxious to make up a good collection in time for the next mail.

The Directors of the Cricket Club have authorized us to invite all young men who wish to become members. As we believe there are many young men recently arrived who would like to join in the game, we make this notice.

Several of our subscribers want to know what has become of the Peruvian sympathizers, and how much money we had been subscribed to purchase an Armstrong gun for Peru. As we know nothing about the matter, we refer our enquiring friends to Don Lucio Mansilla.

One of our colleagues states that the Argentine Central Railway Company has named Mr. James Dunlop to be its successor to Mr. Armstrong, in case of Mr. A's death. We think this is a mistake, and that Mr. John Doguid is the gentleman who has been named. Mr. Armstrong, however, we are happy to say is in the enjoyment of robust health and not likely to require any provision for the contingency which our colleague refers to.

Street Outrages and City Polices. Sixty-two policemen by no means constitute a sufficient body for the maintenance of order in a city like Buenos Ayres, with over 150,000 inhabitants. Even ten times the present number would hardly be enough; Dublin, with double our population, has 3000 police; and not miserable, decrepit, sleepy-looking fellows, but active, stalwart men.

Granted that Buenos Ayres deserves the reputation it enjoys, of being one of the quietest cities in the world, this is no excuse for a total want of police, and if some reform be not made, we shall soon see ourselves the victims of rowdies and burglars, who will be invited either by the mildness of our police office and the fine field open for their labours.

Among the many changes of the last few years, it is to be noted a wonderful increase not only of the Post-office business, but of pocket picking and street outrages. Formerly a man might go into any crowd, without the least fear for his time keeper or tarocon leather, and stroll not only as an unfavourable sign for the civilization of the place. In like manner Rio Janeiro was once very healthy and jolly, very few unknown there, whereas its name is now pestiferous. Our moral atmosphere has so changed, that it is no longer necessary to seek the occasions of pocket-picking, since the 'Chienens' enter our houses uninvited and unexpected.

The most remarkable feature is that this change has been effected by Englishmen, who made their debut at Hargreave's store, and are daily heard of, but not apprehended. Some people may fancy they are a nuisance, but we consider them decidedly useful, as putting the public on the 'qui vive,' and showing the rottenness of our Polices.

The 'Nation Argentina' reports the following cases in its paper:—'St. Marcos Paz (negro), accused by his mother of stealing a silver match-box. 2. Charles Edwidge. Daily. The necessity of the State is a state of intoxication, pretended to make himself at home in an old lady's house, and when the owner endeavored to effect an ejection on the title, he knocked her down.'

having been so ungrateful as to salute a lady subject with a box in the face, was taken to the 'Imprenta.' Mr. John Smith, coming out of a coffee house, 1 Paso Julio, on Sunday evening was seized by two Englishmen who took his watch and chain, along with $300 depreciated paper.

On Saturday morning some thieves broke into a bookshop in the 7th Section, and carried off everything. The police is on their footsteps. To the above we may add a case which occurred on Tuesday night, when the calle Defensa was thrown into alarm by numbers of people rushing down the street and shouting 'stahim!' after a fellow who was said to have just murdered a man in calle Peru. He was at last seized at San Francisco, but as he could not be positively identified, he was let go.

There are cases of street outrage occurring almost every day, yet it is almost impossible to find a policeman, the city comprising 1600 squares, and half the police force (62) being occupied in domestic pursuits, it is clear we have only one vigilante for 60 squares, or 6,000 inhabitants. The sooner our Government resolve to keep pace with the growing strength of pick-pockets in this city, the better.

British Library Lectures.

Some months ago, when a reviving effort was made to raise the British Library to its proper level, it was suggested to get up a course of lectures, and we warmly applauded the idea. Nay, we invited the foreign legation, Consul Parish, and others, to commence the series of intellectual 'conversations,' but unluckily the subject was dropped.

We are, therefore, rejoiced to announce at last the realization of so good an idea, by the kind offer of the respected and talented English chaplain, Rev. J. Chubb Forde, to deliver a public lecture to night at the British Library. Admission will be free not only for subscribers, but all the English-speaking public. We have not learned the subject of the discourse, but have no doubt that it will be of a character to interest every one.

This is the only country boasting considerable literary advancement, in which lectures are unknown, and yet this is a cheap and agreeable manner of improving ourselves, for all persons of decent education, or much experience, can manifestly enlighten their neighbours on at least one subject, to which they may have devoted years of study or labour. Young people will especially be gainers, and acquire a laudable ambition, a personal acquaintance, and an innocent pastime. But it is unnecessary to urge the utility of an instructive recreation so liberally on our public, that the lecture of the Rev. Mr. Forde will take place to-night at seven o'clock, and we begin to see attendance. The American lectures are unknown, and yet these are also first rate lecturers, and if they generously add in a fortnightly series of scientific discourses, we shall be able to show Argentines that Englishmen, Irishmen, Scotchmen, and Americans claim a portion of the laurels of our South American Athletes.

REVISTA DE B. AYRES.

No. 14 of this highly interesting serial, the most valuable literary production of the River Plate, and perhaps of this continent, has appeared. The present volume is not so interesting to the general reader as its predecessors, two thirds of its pages being engrossed by Sr. Garcia Spano's reply to the historian Dominguez. The dispute seems to be whether the project of leading the Argentine patriots across the Andes (which resulted in giving freedom to Chile and Peru) was due to General Guro or to the immortal San Martin. The question becomes tedious when spun out under 120 pages.

The graceful writer and historian Bartolome Mitre, at present chief magistrate of the Republic, contributes a very pretty narrative of the war of Independence, being the cruise of the 'Argentina' in the Pacific and Indian oceans; it contains some daring exploits by Admiral Brown and Capt. Bucharro.

Don Alberto Gama, a Chilean writer, is author of an entertaining novel called 'Luz y sombra de los Gueanos in Colombia' in eight paragraphs. It is by Doctor John H. Scrivener will be read with much interest by all who wish to learn something of Bolivia, its history, people, climate, &c.

Dr. Navarro Viel's speech at the Peruvian Meeting in Colon theatre is, as we remarked on the occasion, a further piece of rhetoric, the initials being in eight paragraphs. The cause of Liberty has two firm champions in the courts of St James's and Washington.

We warmly recommend this publication to those who would learn something about these countries, also to foreigners studying Spanish to whom it would prove an excellent reading-book and in fine to all lovers of a sound and elevated literature.

MR. LANUZ AGAIN.

Yesterday this spirited wholesale merchant came again before the public, on the subject of the paper dollar, and certainly his last article is one of the most to the point we have read. Owing to want of time and space we are obliged to defer publishing this interesting article until to-morrow Mr. Lanuz proves that the Province of Buenos Ayres has lost during the last four years by the depreciation of the paper money the enormous sum of FIVE HUNDRED AND SIXTY MILLIONS of paper money. In fact, to be plain spoken, Mr. Lanuz proves that Buenos Ayres is going headlong to the D— on account of the rotten state of the currency.

It is much to be regretted that we have not more men amongst us of the Lanuz stamp. There are too many of the same school, who are willing to water 'Antenor.' To-morrow our readers will have an opportunity of judging for themselves the merits of Mr. Lanuz's astounding revelations.

OBITUARY.

NATHANIEL HAWTHORNE.

The telegraph brings us the mournful and unexpected news of the death of the most charming of American novelists, and one of the foremost descriptive writers in the language. Nathaniel Hawthorne was found dead in his bed yesterday morning, at Plymouth, N. H., where, in the company of one or more of his earliest friends, he was spending some days for the benefit of his health. Mr. Hawthorne was all by 60 years of age, having been born at Salem, Mass., on the 4th of July, 1804. Of his ancestry, the current biographies profess to find records in the wild burning era of Salem, and by the same authorities are attributed to a line of seafaring colonists who combined the pursuits of agriculture and commerce on a scale of uncertain magnitude, but with steady perseverance. The salient points in his private and official life are briefly these: His father having died at Havana in 1810, young Hawthorne was shortly afterwards put under the tuition of a Bostonian near Sobago Lake, Maine, chiefly with a view to the recruitment of his health, which was delicate. He entered Bowdoin College, Maine, (where Franklin Pierce and George B. Glover were his fellow-students), in 1825, and at the close of his collegiate career he settled at Salem. Postum some time later (in 1838) found him a government custom house as a gauger in the Boston Custom house, under Mr. Bancroft, then the collector of that port during the Whig came into power in 1841, Hawthorne lost his appointment, and conceiving (probably like Southey, Coleridge and Lovell) the idea of a pastorate, he joined the famous Brook Farm Association, returning, however, fully satisfied with this experience of 'a perfect state of society' to Boston in 1843. Here he married and made his home subsequently for some years in 'The Old Manse' at Concord, Mass. His party affiliations again brought him official position and promotion, on the accession of the Polk Administration, and he received the appointment of Surveyor of the port of Salem. When the Whigs returned to power, Hawthorne returned to his retirement and his studies among the hills of Berkshire. Once again, in 1852, he was tendered and accepted office under Government—the Consulate at Liverpool, one of the most lucrative appointments in the gift of the President, and was placed at his disposal by M. Palmer. No doubt, no doubt, as a tribute of long standing personal friendship, and partly as a reward also for important service as a pretty person. His remaining days, after his return from Liverpool, were spent at Concord.

THE SULTANA PROTOCOL.

At a meeting held in the office of the Minister of Foreign Affairs, and Mr. Edward Thornton, Minister Plenipotentiary of H.B.M. Queen Victoria, for the purpose of arranging, in a decisive manner, the claims on the Argentine Government by the British Minister, for damages suffered by British subjects, by reason of the Decree of February 13, 1845, forbidding the entry into the port of Buenos Ayres of vessels and cargoes which have touched at Montevideo, claims which the Argentine Government believes it should not acknowledge. It was agreed—

1st. That it shall be submitted to the arbitration of a friendly Government the question whether the Argentine Government is obliged to pay these damages.

2d. That within the period of six months, from the date hereof of the acceptance of the arbitrator, all the proofs necessary for the decision of the question shall be presented.

3d. The right to make these claims being decided, such claims shall be settled according to the agreements or treaties at present in existence between the Argentine Republic and Great Britain, dated August 21, 1808, and August 18, 1839.

4. This arrangement shall be submitted to the arbitration of the Argentine Congress, and of the British Government, with the least possible delay.

RUFINO ERIZALDE. EDUARDO THORNTON. Buenos Ayres, July 15, 1861.

MR. WELLS'S PARACHUTE.

The event of Antonio Premazzi's heroic and unexpected ascent on last Sunday somewhat disappointed the public, and doubts are openly expressed, that Mr. Wells has not the necessary courage and tact to come down in a parachute. To this the daring nemesis replies by challenging the public to bet 20,000 dols against him! The editor of the 'Tribuna' and some members of the Municipality have opened an opposition list, those on the left backing Mr. Wells, and the others betting against in sums of about $500 each. As yet there are but 5 for, and 1 (Sr. Varela) against, but we have no doubt the list will be filled in a couple of days. He is to descend from a height of 1000 feet in a parachute, on a day of his own choice, and in case the jury decide that he has lost, the money forfeited is to be distributed among 20 distressed families.

Mr. Wells states that he suffered terribly from cold, last Sunday, being immersed in the water for about ten minutes. He was surprised at seeing the boy going up by the rope, and fearing he would relax his hold, and fall on his (Wells') head in the car, he sang out to endeavor to slide down the car so that they might both descend by the parachute, but Antonio said he could not disentangle himself from the rope. We are happy to learn that the Municipality made no difficulty in paying Mr. Wells. He has heard nothing of the Washington, which is lost, probably having fallen in the Indian camp. The B. Ayres is over three times as large as the missing balloon, and he is now conducting a small one over the Irish linen for his parachute trip. The work of the great balloon progresses, and the interesting pamphlet with lithographs, now sold at $10 for the benefit of the enterprise.
