EDITOR'S TABLE.

The city is again plunged in mud. Yesterday it was impossible for ladies to walk in the streets. The project for cleaning the sidewalks, which was sent in to the Municipality, has been thrown out by the Committee reporting that so long as the female citizens use mirrors, no such project is necessary.

On Sunday there was another meeting of the Círculo Literario, and a rather stormy discussion ensued as to the duties of the porter, and the right of members to send him messages. Mr. Varca, of the 'Tribuna,' and Mr. Williams, of the 'River Plate Magazine,' attended and offered some suggestions. We hear that Mr. Romo, of the Bolso, will give some lectures on political economy.

The news from Montevideo is that Flores and Moreno have at last had a fight—neither party beaten—Flores ran away, at least so the Montevideo papers say. No killed or wounded. President Aguirre had at last returned to Montevideo, and the belief is that terms will be finally concluded.

We regret to record the murder of another milkman, in the Plaza Once de Setiembre. The murdered man had only 30 dollars about him, of which he was robbed. The assassin, as usual, got away.

A gentleman returning from the opera last Friday night had a very narrow escape from the knife of some drunken villain in Calle Arce. The police are getting worse and worse each day.

The new station which the Western Railway is building in the Plaza Once de Setiembre will be the most splendid thing in town. It will occupy a whole square and will be finished on English style. This station will be the head office of the Company. A splendid new car has come out for the use of the President and Government. It will be put on the line on opening of the road to Mercedes. The road will shortly be finished to Mercedes, as the rails are being laid and the earthworks finished, but the people in Mercedes have not the remotest idea where the station is to be, and indeed the greatest speculation is going on as to the future site.

A new English café or restaurant has been opened in Calle Piedra, No. 117. The proprietor solicits English patronage.

Two little children were lost on Saturday, one a boy about four years, Vincento, the other a girl, Maria, aged six years. Any of our readers knowing anything about these children, will please notify the parents at 105, Sulphura.

The Chamber of Deputies, we hear has abolished flogging in the army. We hope that all the good which has been prophesied by the friends of this measure, will be realized; but we regret sincerely to say, that the moral emigration of the Argentine army is not such as to justify any great leniency towards the soldiers.

Mr. Lanus has published another important letter on the subject of the paper dollar. It comes out in his usual strong way. We will publish it to-morrow.

The steamer from the Uruguay arrived, but brought no news of importance. In Entre Rios everything was quiet, and on the Oriental shore the rebels had all left that district.

We are requested to direct the attention of the Committee of the 'Bolsa' to the disgraceful state of the 'Water-closets.' A reform is urgently required, and certainly no credit can be given to the architects for such a miserable production.

THE CALVETE LIBEL.

There seems to be but one opinion respecting the disgraceful letter of Major Calvete. Indeed, it is difficult to imagine how the editor in question could forget the dignity of the press, and to allow the publication of such threats as 'to horse-whip the crooked eye senator,' especially since the editor of the 'Pueblo' is a brother-member of Congress with the aggrieved party.

The matter has caused considerable noise, and occupied the attention of the National Senate for some time. It is not yet concluded, and our legislators are diverted from more serious subjects, to decide a question of party.

The debate on Saturday brought out some brilliant allusions from the Prime Minister and Senator Fierro, the former declaring that the offence in question came under no law or tribunal in the land, and the latter rightly insisting on some method of punishment.

In our idea nothing is simpler than for President Mitre to cashier from military duty, without any formalities, or for Congress to summon him to the bar of the House, and condemn him to make an apology on his knees or to go to prison till the next session. In England it would not take so many minutes, as it does here weeks, to settle the matter. The Committee of the Senate, however, thought fit to throw out the bill for Calvete's accusation, and when we remember that the Senator aggrieved is proprietor of a paper (El Nacional) which has been at times very scurrilous in its attacks on the Ministers, it is not surprising that they should be vindictive, irrespective of Sor Fierro and his antecedents.

Most absurd is the demand of the 'Pueblo' newspaper for an outrageous and serious injury on our prerogative, and that our real interests demand a severe chastisement for such an outrage on public decency.

Nevertheless, the dignity of Congress should be vindicated, irrespective of Sor Fierro and his antecedents. The Ministers call 'the liberty of the Press.' Remember that Sor Calvete and the 'Pueblo' newspaper have inflicted a serious injury on our prerogative, and that our real interests demand a severe chastisement for such an outrage on public decency.

NEWS FROM PERU.

The couriers have at length succeeded in crossing the Andes, and the last mail brings news from Lima up to June 26th, with news from Peru three weeks later than via England. The Peruvians, after their patriotic attempts to poison the Spanish Minister on the packet, and assassinate him at Panama, anticipated the vengeance of Admiral Pinzon, and Callao was in a state of siege. The Government of Peru has not made the least step towards negotiating with the invaders, and the only warlike symptom in the arrival of 100 Chilean volunteers at Callao.

Most absurd is the demand of the 'Pueblo' newspaper for an outrageous and serious injury on our prerogative, and that our real interests demand a severe chastisement for such an outrage on public decency.

THEATICAL OVATION.

Our opera-house has never appeared to greater advantage than on Friday night. In spite of the weather, the house was very full, and the boxes presented quite a galaxy of beauty and fashion. Norma was well played up and sung, and the applause and enthusiasm which followed every scene inspired Madame Briol with unprecedented talent and power.

On former occasions she divided the palm with her charming rival Mello, but now she bore it off undisputed. Yet the other prima donna could not have excelled in Adalgia, and the performance on the whole was one of the best witnessed of a long time. In fact some Englishmen recently arrived were quite surprised, not less at the brilliant spectacle of the audience, than the superior rendering of this fine opera.

After the first act Madame Briol sang the waltz said to be composed for her by Sig. Nannetti, but the singing was much superior to the composition, which was only a parody on the waltz. It was, however, encored, and Signor Nannetti called on the stage to receive a public acknowledgment. After the third act, the fair artist came forward dressed as the Countess of Castrol, and sang 'The Rose of Summer' in English with such exquisite taste that it received an enthusiastic encore. Nevertheless we prefer her rendering of it in Italian, not from her lovely success, but because Tuscan is really softer than English.

The ovation of Friday night was the grandest ever seen in Buenos Ayres, and much more practical than the noisy Peruvian meetings. Besides a number of handsome wreaths and bouquets, the following valuable presents were given to Mme. Briol:

1. A gold medal weighing eight ounces, with the legend: 'To Madame Carolina Briol, by her friends and admirers in Buenos Ayres, 24th July 1864.'

2. Accompanying the above, a splendid model of pearl Album, with the verses of the following donors: Meslunas Mitre, Hucayo, G. Moreno, G. de Mendizábal, S. Castro, Devaria, Tallero, Wilde, Elizalde, Segui, Garcia, Canavea, Lavallol, White, Torres, Saenz-Valente, Cozon, Chaparro, Mackinlay, Lafuente, Y. Rola, Ledie, Pacheco, Brittain, and Calzadilla.

3. A floral pyramid, standing 7 feet high, initials A. N.

4. A casket finely inlaid; initials A. M. C.

5. A ring with five brilliants; initials J. M.

6. A splendid bracelet with five diamonds; initials D.

7. A molitur-of-pearl box for gloves; initials L. L.

We regret to learn that the talented prima donna retires for some time from the stage, but her temporary absence has been so brilliant, that we have no doubt she will again favor the public of this city, which has shown her such rare, and so well-deserved, testimonies of regard.

NORTHWARD HO!

JOINT PURCHASE OF LAND. The letter in the 'Standard' of July 27th, signed 'Subscriber,' is sufficient evidence of the fact that many at present renting land would purchase if they knew or could find others to join in buying a tract with the intent of dividing it immediately afterwards.

What could be easily accomplished by six or eight united would be an impossibility to one or two; if they not only joined to purchase, but to assist each other in the management of their estates, they would, in a great measure, be independent of peons and would save many dollars often foolishly spent. The act is not in gaining or making the money, but in the purchase; that the great secret is in knowing how to avoid spending what you have gained.

This want of union is guilty of many sins—among others, that of forcing many with two or three hundred thousand dollars in the bank, to remain tenants, thereby depriving themselves of many comforts that no extension of need be without. It seems to me that some one should have an interest in uniting or bringing into contact all those small capitalists. What say the land agents to this observation?

In the mean time farmers should bear in mind that there is now an opening in Santa Fé, the soil is so good, and determined to live forever subject to the whims of landlords, or spending their hard earnings in continued removals, let them continue to pass and let the boys beyond your reach get over. As the tracts for sale, with few exceptions, are too extensive to meet the individual wants of the great majority, it would be advisable to buy jointly. To do this, intending purchasers require to be acquainted with each other's views, and, if it has not the opportunity of being assisted by the editors of the 'Standard' in searching for persons anxious to purchase jointly—not because the editors would refuse any assistance in their power, but it would be unreasonable, for instance, a non-subscriber to make such a request; and I am sorry to say there are many in a position to do so, and are subscribers, which between ourselves and the wall, is, to say the least of it, a great shame. It becomes necessary that they should get acquainted with each other through the medium of advertisements, through the office of a land agent, or through mutual friends. In my opinion, the most efficient plan would be the following: a land agent having a tract of say five leagues, for sale, advertisements that he can not tell it in fractions but will receive offers for any fraction of it with a view to finding a sufficient number to buy the tract; A, in answer to this advertisement, applies for two leagues, B, for one league, C, for half a league, and so on until the required number is complete, of which the agent informs the applicants; they then meet, buy the land conditionally, appoint one or two of the party to inspect the tract, and sign his proportional share of the expenses. When on the spot, if the land they went to see was not suitable, they could see other tracts of which they would, probably, get information through the agent from the society lately formed to promote immigration, of which Mr. Verkins is a member.

Land agents on their part should not forget that there are fifty small capitalists able to purchase and stock a small tract, against one able, and if able not willing to purchase a large estate; consequently, if they can find the object of keeping number one in view, should afford every facility possible to purchasers of small farms. FOUR OLD ERIN SOULD

To the Editors of the Standard. Mistier Editors,

I cant boast of much learning, and I dont know how to write to the likes of you, that's always writing day and night the biggest stories that you can get from pens to manufacturers; and at times your pen does make strange tales and Mick Linn, and Tom O'Brian, and two or three more of my neighbours in our camp, say that them Editors of the 'Standard,' print more news than all the other papers in Buenos Ayres put together, but let that pass, I want to tell you how I would like to see in my old age, and would be three or four muffs too. Me temper's thin when I think of it, and I'll be wanting something, or maybe I'll be doing something I might be sorry for in the morning when the sun, God bless her, gets up, though its myself, and a good many more as enjoys ourselves in the day's light, and I'll leave it to the likes of you, gentlemen, to tell me why we feel a little ill-tempered of a woman who says the sun's rising; speaking as a Con-man, I want to tell you how I would like to see in my old age, and would be three or four muffs too. The immense advantages of Accounts Current are now generally felt and appreciated in the great quantities of the River Plate, Montevideo and Buenos Ayres that these cities supply. Merchants who fail to keep one of the bank in which they place the most confidence. The Bank of Montevideo has already provided for the working classes in this city a safe and profitable repository for their savings.
The sums deposited in that most important institution are daily increasing, and already reach a very large amount.
These advantages have not hitherto been enjoyed in this city by an immense number of clerks, artisans, working men, and servants of all classes and conditions, who are equally interested in putting their savings out at interest, than providing themselves with a secure fund for their old age, or as a means of spending them in the manner they please, in case of need, sickness, or old age, instead of squandering them in the manner of the lottery, and other frivolities.
The Bank of Montevideo & Co. of this city, following the noble example of their firm in Montevideo, now offer the same facilities in this city, and will open a Savings Bank at No. 303 Calle Cangallo, on the corner of the street, on the first day of the month of August, and on the following days: Tuesday, 1st, 8th, 15th, 22nd, 29th, and 30th of the month.
The Bank will deliver to each depositor a pass book, in which will be entered the amount deposited and withdrawn.
The deposits are permitted at any time to withdraw the whole or part of the sum deposited, in the former case the interest will be calculated up to the date.
The Bank of Montevideo & Co. is sufficiently known to the Public by the benefits derived from the course of its operations, which are regulated in the strictest and soundest principles, and always directed to promote the general welfare.
The Bank of Montevideo & Co. are also persuaded that this new branch of their business will render immense service to the working classes of Buenos Ayres and its neighbourhood.
