ARGENTINE INTERESTS

Our present system of Government seems so identical with that of the United States that at first sight it would appear that our constitution was framed in Washington and not Buenos Ayres...

The Argentine nation, ruled as it is at present, never can progress in any branch of industry or manufacture which requires the fostering care of legislation or national protection...

In the United States of North America the most important branch of the executive is the agricultural department, the very one which is unknown in this country.

Why we take up the records of the North American Congress, and we find these Argentine legislators are at present occupied discussing subjects which only in recent years were even mooted in Washington.

not our intention, but when we see the same jog-trot proceedings going on in Congress every day and every year, we cannot withhold from making these few cursory remarks.

We call the attention of Argentines to the great want of an agricultural department in our executive; we can dispense with diplomatic dinners for the present, we question even if we would feel the want of the ministers who give them; but one of the most beneficial reforms for the country would be to turn half our ministers into agricultural agents empowered by Congress to distribute seeds and farming implements amongst the neglected provinces.

THE PALLIERE ALBUM

This fortnight's pictures are interesting in subject, being purely characteristic of the River Plate, and well-conceived in grouping and expression.

The Vigil of the Dead represents a custom of Christian piety, on the eve of All Souls day. The scene is laid in the churchyard of Victoria, Entre Rios, and the sunset of a summer evening throws a soothing mildness over the surrounding landscape.

A little chapel concludes the picture, which is so sad, that M. Palliere gives us a great contrast in its companion. General Flores' army is a motley ragged-looking set of ruffians, not quite so civilized as Salvador Rosa's brigades...

General Flores' army is a motley ragged-looking set of ruffians, not quite so civilized as Salvador Rosa's brigades nor so barbarous as the king of Madagascar's body-guard.

may be bare-foot, and others, including the captain, have untanned "botas de potro." The foreground is occupied by three cavaliers, with lances, two of whom carry the red cross which gives their army the name of Colorados...

Articles for the Paris Exhibition

31. Pedigree Wheat. This sample was brought to Buenos Ayres, by Mr. Phibbs, from Europe, and is supposed to be very prolific. Nevertheless, it has not been tried in the River Plate...

32. Ready-reckoner. The casket bearing this name contains a revolver and 100 patent cartridges: it is very useful in attending meetings, elections, or evening parties, enabling the possessor to settle accounts in Tulumbo...

33. Meat-cutter. The machine so marked is an American invention, patented by Dr. Cornwall: the upper and lower rows act simultaneously. Visitors requested to take care of their fingers when the operator shows the machine in motion.

34. There are two kinds: those used in the National Congress, and those adopted at camp elections. The first are worked by a backward movement of the left hand, and must be kept well-oiled. The second require a horse's aid, and are usually managed by alcaldes.

35. Digger types. This is a pretty collection—"The pirates of the Paraná," "The Cabildo patients," "The garrison of Bahía Blanca," "The San Juan Rifles," "The Flores bauditti," "Mezco-tinto," A live mulatto, stationed near the entrance to take charge of sticks and umbrellas.

37. Preserved beef. This method is not the Olden or Braden, but one invented by a German land surveyor who lately succeeded in saving his bacon in a wonderful manner on the Indian frontier.

38. Camp cooking apparatus. This exceedingly simple contrivance is only an iron bar, called an "usador": it is so portable that it may be used as a walking stick, when you go out of your house at night, meantime it will serve for cooking any joint however large.

39. Argentine Salt. Very unlike the Attic, and found mostly in large beds near Patagonias. As the Indians take the credit of these deposits in the Colorado banks, they often draw on us three days after sight, but these transactions have been protested by Sr. Pñera.

40. Indian Arms. A bow and quiver exhibited by Sr. Sarmiento, Cacique of San Juan, who is very expert in pulling the long bow. A lance belonging to Juan San. A lasso and bolas worn by the late lauded General Olmicho, of the Indian cavalry brigade.

MEMORIAL TABLE

We are happy to hear that there is the greatest demand for boxes and seats in Colon for the benefit on Friday night. The Buenos Ayrean agents of the United States Sanitary Commission will, after all, be able to remit home a respectable sum for the poor wounded soldiers and their distressed families.

The latest novelty in town is, that there is a regular split between the Judges and the National Executive, concerning the emancipation of some slaves brought by a Brazilian gentleman to Buenos Ayres, en route to Matto Grosso.

editor delivers up the niggers, he ought to be tarred and feathered. The best way to settle the question, is to get the Brazilian to put a value on his slaves, and then start a subscription. We feel certain, that the people in Buenos Ayres would willingly subscribe the necessary amount, and thus save us from getting into a difficulty with Brazil about some half a dozen niggers.

We read in the "Nacion" a very mysterious case just brought under the notice of the police. On last Sunday the Commissario was called to visit a house, No. 463, Calle Estados Unidos, which was shut up for some time.

The diplomatic dinner passed off very well. President Mitre, and all the Foreign Ministers, with the members of both Houses of Congress attended. The toasts were numerous and the speeches splendid.

Another interesting letter from Mr. Lauzu, on the paper dollar, appeared in yesterday's "Nacion Argentina," and proves, in the clearest manner possible, that the paper dollar is every day becoming less current.

The Italian Minister, Sr. Barbolani, has come up from Montevideo to see President Mitre, and try if possible to make peace between Flores and President Aguirre.

Yesterday, a fine little German boy was sent down to our office, having got lost in the streets. He is about seven years old, and says his name is Edward Franklin Epland, speaks English a little, German fluently, and states that he recently arrived from New York with his father, who is stopping in some hotel where only Spanish is spoken.

Our readers can form some idea of the great increase of River Plate commerce, by looking over the list of vessels which arrived in Europe from the River Plate from the 8th to the 22nd June. Sixty seven vessels, all with full cargoes, arrived during that time. It seems almost incredible.

We are happy to report that Mr. Crawford's attention to the wants of the men working on the Great Southern Railway is everyday showing itself. Besides the Reading-room and Library recently provided, a Sick Fund has now been started; the men pay 2 per cent out of their wages, and are entitled to half-pay when sick, besides medical attendance free.

Mr. Armstrong, jun., member of the Cotton Supply Association has presented a quintal of cotton seed to the Bolivian Consul. We presented, at our own expense, a sack of cotton seed to the Manager of the Bolsa, but have not heard whether there were any applications. It is still difficult to persuade people that Argentine cotton, like Argentine law, is not a humbug.

The French war steamer Lutken entered port yesterday. We have to report the arrival of the John Risson from Liverpool, to Messrs. Bates, Solers and Co., with 10 English emigrants.

Montevideo Editor's Table.

The all absorbing topic of conversation here now is the Amateur Concert in Solis on Thursday evening; for particulars of which you have only to look over our city papers. Everything was in splendid style, and every seat was taken. Entrance one silver dollar; boxes, one gold ounce, and there were many who could not be accommodated.

A very beautiful effect was produced by the artificial descent of a pure white dove upon the shoulders of one of the most favorite performers, Sta. Reyes, and called forth tremendous applause. There was a strong sympathy amongst the English part of the audience in favor of Sta. de Cassulla, owing in a great degree to her very great assistance at the dramatic performance given by the officers of H. B. M. Ship Forte, and others, some time since, also in the same theatre.

To show how general the interest is in behalf of the Sanitary fund and its good deeds, I have only to call your attention to what has been done in Buenos Ayres.

We are almost completely blockaded at present from our neighbors at a few leagues distance, from the shocking state of the roads. To get to the Union, about four miles distant, one has to get his life insured, or provide himself with a life-preserver.

The Russian frigate Vauak, which arrived a few days since from Cuba on her way to the Pacific, will soon be followed by another much larger. The officers and crew, in large numbers, are seen every day in the streets, and can be easily distinguished from the other foreign naval officers, as they are not so tidy or neat in their dress.

The notorious R. H. Robinson, who was the ring-leader of the attempted conspiracy on board the national steamer "Gen. Artigas," and sentenced to four years' banishment outside the Cape by the military court martial, was sent in a Brazilian steamer to Rio Grande. It is a great pity that he was able to induce quite a number of others to join him in this piratical adventure.

He has claimed to be an American, but the only real ground for his claim was a few months' residence in the United States, and there is a protest noted at the American Consulate here against receiving him to claim protection as an American citizen. He has also made affidavits and signed himself a British subject, but the truth is, he was born in the East Indies. He was famous for lawsuits and litigation, and the lawyers will be almost the only persons who will regret his banishment.

The Rev. Mr. Adams preached a charitable sermon on the Festival of St. John's Day, and a collection was made for charitable purposes, amounting to 136 silver dollars for the Escuela Philanthropica, and 90 for the British Hospital. The German Vocal Musical Society, led by the talented Mr. Seeger, assisted with 45 voices to make the services more interesting.

I send you a circular issued by Don Gabriel Penilla, Chief of Police of Paysandu, in which you will see what a laudable act he is engaged in. I do not remember right if I have seen any mention of it in the "Standard." He is a most excellent man, and has been the means of making great public improvements in the Department in which he presides, such as erecting a well-arranged hospital, a fine spacious and elegant building for the Police and other Authorities, and the erection of one of the most splendid Churches in the Province—second only to the Matrix in this city.

There is a rumor so prevalent in town on Monday to the effect that Signor Astengo was dead and buried is manifestly untrue. In yesterday's "Nacion Argentina" he publishes several documents explanatory of the quarrel, which we learn arose out of playing the Garibaldi and Sardinian hymns at the late benefit of the Italian Hospital. The Consul's friends, Sres. Pennano and Barros, insisted that Pezzi was guilty of a personal insult against those on behalf of the latter. Sres. Francini and Serrafini, maintained the contrary. A jury was then impanelled, of the editors of the "Nacion," and Pueblo and D. Manuel Argerich (all fire-eaters), who decided that there was nothing personally injurious to the Consul, but merely an appreciation of Fashionable Intelligence.

The Plata ball will be given on Saturday night. There will be a large attendance; including President Mitre and family.

The second lecture of the British Library will be given next week by the senior Scotch chaplain, Rev. Mr. Smith; we have not heard the subject. The ensuing one will be given by the American pastor, Rev. Mr. Goodfellow. It is also proposed to get up a series of lectures at the American church.

The third meeting of the Literary Circle took place last night: one lady (Mme. Noronha) has been elected honorary member and attends the Club. It is hoped that others will follow her example.

On Monday evening the editor of the "Tribuna" gave a grand ball. On Tuesday the English soiré took place.

A concert for the British Hospital will be given at the grand saloon of Colon theatre on Tuesday evening 9th inst.

It is expected the American Sanitary Benefit will be a great success on Friday evening.

Nothing positive is known about Mr. Wells' balloon ascent, as the required amount ($20,000 npe.) in bets cannot be made up.

A morning paper mentions as a sign of the times that six fashionable marriages were celebrated on Saturday.

The Elizabeth white-bait dinner on Monday evening was quite on the European style. President Mitre, Dr. Rawson, Sr. Gonzalez, Dr. Costa, and General Gelly-obes, all the foreign corps diplomatically and several other guests were present.

The "Nacion" mentions two grand tournaments to come off this week, in calles Saipacha and Maypu.

The obsequies of the late Dr. Victorio Peña were celebrated on Monday in presence of a large concourse of friends.

On Saturday a private concert was given in calle Cuyo, which is said to have been most successful.

His Excellency Count Ulysses Barbolani, Italian Minister to the courts of B. Ayres and Montevideo, arrived here on Sunday aboard the Italian war steamer Fulminante.

The Chevalier Cruz, Spanish Minister to the Oriental Republic has been also accredited in a like capacity to B. Ayres.

Mme Curtis teacher of music and singing, has grown as popular as we anticipated, in her profession. She has changed her residence to No. 79 Tucuman.

Byron's poem of the Giaour has been translated into Spanish by an Argentine writer named Pedro Espinosa. We shall be obliged to any fair reader who will favor us with a review of same.

The foot-race will take place at Palermo on Saturday between our three English friends, for £20 a side. We incorrectly stated that Mr. B. ran 100 in 22 seconds: the time was but 10 seconds.

Parties now are all the rage: that on Friday evening was well-attended, but we regret to learn that one of the gentlemen was slightly injured by slipping from a form which overbalanced.

His Excellency Sr. Saraiva, Brazilian plenipotentiary leaves for Montevideo to-day.

By next mail we may expect the engineers of the Central Argentine railway.

The traction engine El Bucy got up steam on Monday and proceeded from the Riachuelo wharf to the baraca.

RIO NEGRO.

The Eco brings dates from Mercedes to the 30th ult. On the day previous a man named Maximino Perez, commanding a small force of rebels, made a descent on the neighbourhood of Biscocho, and carried off all the men and horses that he met in his march. The agent of the Maua Bank in Mercedes, Mr. J. P. Bitter, advises his customers that their correspondence must be in one of the following languages: Spanish, Portuguese, English, French or German. This gives us an idea of the babel of tongues prevalent in a town of 8,000 inhabitants: we regret to find that Mr. Bitter does not understand Guarani, it is a sweet language.

The Italian Consul and Sr. Pezzi. The rumor so prevalent in town on Monday to the effect that Signor Astengo was dead and buried is manifestly untrue. In yesterday's "Nacion Argentina" he publishes several documents explanatory of the quarrel, which we learn arose out of playing the Garibaldi and Sardinian hymns at the late benefit of the Italian Hospital. The Consul's friends, Sres. Pennano and Barros, insisted that Pezzi was guilty of a personal insult against those on behalf of the latter. Sres. Francini and Serrafini, maintained the contrary. A jury was then impanelled, of the editors of the "Nacion," and Pueblo and D. Manuel Argerich (all fire-eaters), who decided that there was nothing personally injurious to the Consul, but merely an appreciation of party spirit. This decision was dated July 28th, yet three days later Sig. Pezzi published a kind of challenge in the morning papers which it was said led to the rumoured fatal encounter at Belgrano on Monday morning.

Erin's Visit to the Patagonian Indians.

Misther Editor, Sure I'm not lost in the Nancy Riley after all, though it's yourself who sent home word to my friends that both myself and all on board were lost, but there is little fear of their believing you, for there is an old saying at home, that "a man that's born to be hang'd will never be drown'd."

I would not be after troubling you now with the particulars of my last adventure, but that I hear there is great work going on in Congress about the state of the army, the frontier, and the Indians, and as I believe I know more about these subjects than all the President, Governors, Senators and Deputies, &c., in this blessed country, I hope you will make room for my Patagonian adventures.

You of course know that since my arrival in this country I have been pretty busy in everything that was to be seen. I wandered about the camps near Machucan on a shooting excursion, and if you want to know what I shot, why it was a gaucha, because the fellow could not understand English, and wouldn't tell me which was the way to Mr. Hannah's estancia—I got into a bit of a stream, and had another awkward misunderstanding with a fellow without boots, what I said to me, and what I said to him, the d—l a one of us knew, but the next morning the report in Ranchos was that there was a mad Englishman in the arroyo hard by.

Well then you recollect the row I had with the coachman in Entre Rios, and how I took Minister Costa and his secretary out of pure charity in my own coach to General Urquiza's, and how hospitably the General received the Minister and the secretary when he saw them in my company.

Then again you cannot forget how I figured at Captain Bruce's picnic in Rosario, and the unpleasant mistake which arose from my showing some Argentine friends the mouth of the Parana from my old campaigning map of the Gauchos.

Since my arrival from Europe I have been looking at everything, and I really think that few things have escaped my attention. I could write a book twice as big as your handbook or Consul Hutchinson's Sheaves, but I confess after all that my travels and excursions in and about Buenos Ayres and the rivers were nothing to my last adventure to that accursed land called Patagonia.

I am surprised that in your anxiety to prove Irish antiquities in this country you have not discovered the great probability that some fellow named Paddy Quincey from the old country first settled there, because it's no one but an Irishman could have had such monstrous big sons as the claps I met with in that land of loaves and starvation.

and the Straits. We sailed on the last Saturday of April. The particulars of the voyage I will send you in my next Yours, ERIN.

*When this letter would be well able to pick itself up, and might 'perhaps' bring us in some of a Saturday night, though my old friend says that I may know of some of the fellows who were with me when I said him on the subject, but at the same time his right hand would be over his left shoulder, and I don't see how it would be so well furnished, and I don't see how it would be so well furnished, and I don't see how it would be so well furnished.

A Female Federal Spy The 'Detroit Tribune' narrates the adventures of a Miss Pauline Gushman who has been engaged as a Federal spy. It seems that Miss Gushman is an actress, and fell under suspicion at Louisville, from having consorted with 'rebel' officers. She was arrested, but she stoutly denied that she was a 'rebel'.

In order to test the love for the old flag she was asked if she would enter the secret service of the Government. She readily consented, and was at once employed to carry letters between Louisville and Nashville. She was subsequently employed by General Rosecrank, and was for many months with the army of the Cumberland. She visited the rebel lines time after time, and was thoroughly acquainted with all the country and roads in Tennessee, Northern Georgia, Alabama, and Mississippi, in which sections she rendered the Federal armies invaluable service. She was twice suspected of being a spy and taken prisoner, but managed to escape. At last, however, she was not so fortunate. After the Federal forces had captured Nashville, Miss Gushman made a scout toward Shelbyville to obtain information of the strength and position of the enemy, and, while returning to Nashville, was captured on the Hardin Pike, eleven miles from the latter city. She was placed on a horse, and, in charge of two scouts, was being taken to Spring Hill, the headquarters of Forrest. While on the way to this place she feigned sickness, and said she could not travel any further without falling from her horse. Her captors stopped at a house on the roadside, when it was ascertained that a Federal scouting party had passed the place an hour before. Knowing that her guards had important papers for Gen. Bragg, she quickly writed spied the fact and schemed to use it to her advantage. Seeing an old negro who appeared to commiserate her unfortunate plight, she watched her opportunity and placed $10 in Tennessee money in his hand, saying, 'Run up the road, uncle, and come back in a few minutes, telling us that 400 Federals are coming down the street.' The faithful negro obeyed the order literally, and soon came back in the greatest excitement, telling the story. The 'rebels' told him he lied.

The old coloured man got on his knees, saying 'Massa, dey's cumin, sure nuff; de Lord help us, dey is cumin.' The scouts at this believed his story, mounted their horses, and 'skedaddled' for the woods. Miss Gushman, seizing a pistol belonging to a wounded soldier in the house, also mounted her horse and fled towards Franklin. She travelled through the rain, and after midnight lost her way. Soon came the challenge of a picket 'Who comes there?' Thinking she had reached the rebel line, said 'A friend of Jeff Davis.' 'All right,' was the reply; 'advance and give the countersign.' She presented the countersign in the shape of a canteen of whisky. She passed five pickets in this way, but the sixth and last was obdurate. She pleaded that she was going to see a sick uncle at Franklin, but the sentry could not see it. Sick and disheartened, she turned back. Seeing a light at a farmhouse, she sought shelter. An old man received her kindly, showed her to a room, and said he would wake her at an early hour in the morning and show her the road to Franklin. A loud knocking awoke her in the morning from her lethargic slumbers, and upon arising she found the horse saddled and the two guards from whom she had escaped the previous afternoon. She was taken to the headquarters of Forrest, and he sent her, after a critical examination, to General Bragg. Nothing could be found against her until a Scotch woman stole her garters, under the inner sole of which were found important documents which clearly proved her to be a spy. She was tried and condemned to be executed as a spy. She finally, after lying in prison three months, sent for General Bragg, and asked him if he had no mercy. She received from him the comforting assurance that he should make an example of her, and that he should hang her as soon as she got well enough to be hung decently. While in this state of suspense the grand army of Rosecrank commenced its forward movement, and one fine day the rebel town where she was imprisoned was surprised and captured, and the heroine of this tale was released.

The subject again occupied the National Senate on yesterday. After several speeches, pro et contra, the House divided on the report of the Committee, which was to negative the proposition.

For the Report, 11, Against, 13. Major Calvete will therefore be proposed by the Chamber, but we believe, according to Argentine law, the paper 'El Pueblo' in which the defamatory article was published is not amenable.

Numerical Misprint.—Our paper is most unlucky about figures: the contract purchase of land in Cordoba was for one thousand square leagues, not 100, as incorrectly set down in yesterday's paper.

Mutiny.—The Chilean papers report the arrival at Valparaiso of the crew (in iron) who had mutinied on board the British barque John Stephen, and abandoned the vessel.

Mendoza.—The 'Constitutional' treats of the Pampero frontier-project. Small-pox is decreasing. A committee has been named to collect subscriptions for the Central Argentine railway. Balfet dances.—The 'Nacional' states that a company has arrived at Montevideo.

Forged Notes.—The 'Banco Comercial' of Montevideo, reports the forgery of one dollar notes in its name. The color of the paper is rather bluish, (instead of green), and for further detection, the letters at the bottom are badly engraved.

ON 'CHANGE. August 2, 1861. Paper price of ounces $4 99. Paper price of sovereigns 140.

Table with exchange rates for various items like gold, silver, and currencies.

Things on 'Change to-day were dull enough. The brokers are eternally talking about the Government project, but merchants are so tired of the subject, that they have fairly cut the speculators, and gone over to the producer brokers, to talk about sheepskins and hides.

The great delay in bringing the project before the public, gives rise to the most cutting remarks, as it opens a field for speculation to all who have superior information.

We, of course, would be the last to hint at the Finance Minister speculating on the possible depreciation of the paper money, although if he did, he would not be the first who laid himself open to such a charge.

The arrivals to-day were heavy; two steamers and light vessels, one of which brought a cargo of railway iron for the Argentine Central Railway Company.
